Preface

1. The General Assembly, in its resolution 58/269 entitled "Strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for further change", requested the Secretary-General to prepare, on a trial basis, for submission to the General Assembly at its fifty-ninth session, a strategic framework to replace the four-year medium-term plan, which would comprise in one document:

(a) Part one: a plan outline, reflecting the longer-term objectives of the Organization;

(b) Part two: a biennial programme plan, to cover two years.

2. The General Assembly also affirmed in that resolution that the strategic framework should constitute the principal policy directive of the United Nations and should serve as the basis for programme planning, budgeting, monitoring and evaluation; decided to review, with a view to taking a final decision at its sixty-second session, the format, content and duration of the strategic framework, including the necessity of maintaining part one, and requested the Secretary-General to submit a report, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination, reviewing the experiences gained with the changes made in the planning and budgeting process. The Assembly also decided that the programme narratives of the programme budget fascicles should be identical to the biennial programme plan.

3. In its resolution 59/275, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to prepare and propose a plan outline, reflecting the longer-term objectives of the Organization and a biennial programme plan in the context of the strategic framework for the biennium 2008-2009 based, inter alia, on the following principal criteria:

(a) The longer-term objectives consistent with all the relevant legislative mandates in all areas of the activities of the United Nations;

(b) Outcomes of the intergovernmental conferences and summits;

(c) Inputs from relevant programme managers;

(d) Use of intergovernmentally agreed terms and expressions.

4. The Secretary-General submitted to the General Assembly at its sixty-first session, through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-sixth session,[1] the proposed plan outline and biennial programme plan of the strategic framework for the period 2008-2009.[2] For its deliberations the Committee also had before it a conference room paper prepared by the Secretariat on the review of part two: biennial programme plan by the relevant sectoral, functional and regional bodies.

5. The General Assembly, in its resolution 61/235 entitled "Programme planning", having considered the report of the Committee for Programme and Coordination,[1] endorsed the conclusions and recommendations contained therein with respect to the biennial programme plan for the period 2008-2009 subject to the provisions of that resolution, and decided not to take a decision on the content of part one: plan outline. By its decision 61/533, the General Assembly decided to approve programme 19, Human rights, of the proposed strategic framework for the period 2008-2009, subject to the provisions of that decision and to the additional modifications contained in the annex. By its decision 61/545, the Assembly decided to approve subprogramme 1, Economic and Social Council support and coordination, of programme 7, Economic and social affairs, of the proposed strategic framework for the period 2008-2009.

Programme 1

General Assembly and Economic and Social Council affairs and conference management

Overall orientation

1.1 The overall objectives of this programme are: (a) to facilitate, through the provision of technical secretariat support and authoritative advice, the orderly and effective conduct of the deliberations and follow-up actions of the General Assembly, its General and First Committees, its Special Political and Decolonization (Fourth) Committee and various subsidiary organs and its Second and Third Committees, the Economic and Social Council and most of the Council's subsidiary and ad hoc bodies, and the special United Nations conferences and meetings dealing with disarmament, international security and economic, social and related matters; and to assist in the revitalization efforts of the Assembly and other United Nations bodies; and (b) to ensure, through integrated global management, the provision of high-quality conference-servicing support to all intergovernmental and expert bodies meeting at Headquarters and at the United Nations Office at Geneva, the United Nations Office at Vienna and the United Nations Office at Nairobi, and other conferences and meetings held under the auspices of the United Nations, taking into account the principle of equal treatment to be given to all established official languages in each organ of the Organization.

1.2 The basic mandates for this programme are contained in the rules of procedure of the principal organs of the United Nations. Additional mandates are stipulated by resolutions of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council, particularly resolutions on the reform and revitalization of the Assembly and on the pattern of conferences. Overall intergovernmental direction concerning the organization and servicing of meetings is given by the Assembly on the advice of the Committee on Conferences, in accordance with Assembly resolution 43/222 B, which established the terms of reference of the Committee.

1.3 The Department for General Assembly and Conference Management at Headquarters and the conference-servicing organizational entities at the United Nations Office at Geneva, the United Nations Office at Vienna and the United Nations Office at Nairobi are responsible for the implementation of this programme and the achievement of its objectives. Pursuant to Assembly resolutions 57/300 and 60/236 A and B as well as the provisions relevant to conference services of its resolutions on multilingualism, the strategic framework under this programme seeks to make further advancement in integrated global management and to provide high-quality documents in a timely manner in all official languages, as well as high-quality conference services to Member States at all duty stations, and to achieve those aims as efficiently and cost-effectively as possible. During the biennium, both technical secretariat support and conference-servicing support to the intergovernmental and expert bodies serviced by the Department will continue to be provided in a proactive and synergistic manner to achieve full-system benefits across conference-servicing duty stations.

1.4 The Department will continue to focus on advance planning for effective management of conference services, optimize workflow, align capacity with expected output and pay special attention to the end results and overall performance. The implementation of global management will continue to evolve in response to new challenges of standardizing administrative policies, practices and procedures across all conference-servicing duty stations. Together with this, the global information technology initiative will allow the identification, development and deployment of standardized and optimized systems in order to achieve a high level of efficient and effective resource utilization and virtualization of operations. Continued focus on training and upgrading of staff skills will facilitate effective implementation of available new technologies and efficiency tools. These efforts, subject to related provisions of the above-mentioned General Assembly resolutions, will result in enhanced quality, productivity, timeliness and cost-effectiveness of the operations under this programme. Effective measures to be taken by the Department to seek the evaluation by Member States of the quality of the conference services provided to them, as a key performance indicator of the Department, will provide equal opportunities to Member States to present their evaluations in the six official languages of the United Nations and will be in full compliance with relevant resolutions of the General Assembly.

Disarmament

Overall orientation

3.1 General and complete disarmament under strict and effective international control remains the ultimate goal of all efforts exerted in the field of disarmament. The main responsibilities for disarmament lie with Member States. The United Nations, in accordance with its Charter, has a central role and primary responsibility in supporting Member States in this area.

3.2 The mandate for the programme derives from the priorities established in relevant General Assembly resolutions and decisions in the field of disarmament, including the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly, the first special session devoted to disarmament (resolution S-10/2). The programme is also guided by the United Nations Millennium Declaration (resolution 55/2) and takes into account other relevant resolutions of the United Nations. Weapons of mass destruction, in particular nuclear weapons, continue to be of primary concern to the Organization. Conventional disarmament, especially with regard to major weapons systems, small arms and light weapons and landmines, has received growing attention from the international community over the past few years.

3.3 Within the Secretariat, substantive responsibility for the programme is vested in the Department for Disarmament Affairs. The Department's strategy in meeting the programme's objectives is designed around five subprogrammes and is based on its role in and responsibility for facilitating and encouraging, as appropriate, disarmament and non-proliferation measures at all levels. The Department will continue to assist Member States in promoting, strengthening and consolidating multilaterally negotiated principles and norms in all areas of disarmament and non-proliferation in all its aspects. It will support efforts of Member States in the areas of disarmament and non-proliferation in all its aspects in order to help maintain international peace and security and contribute to global efforts against terrorism. The Department will continue to promote and facilitate efforts for further implementation of the Programme of Action adopted at the United Nations Conference on the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, as well as practical disarmament measures. It will promote transparency, based on the principle of undiminished security for all, and confidence-building measures in the field of disarmament. Through its regional centres for peace and disarmament, the Department will assist Member States in promoting regional approaches to disarmament, non-proliferation in all its aspects and regional and international peace and security. It will also continue to contribute to efforts to enhance disarmament expertise in Member States, particularly in developing countries.

3.4 The Department will seek to achieve the objectives of the programme by facilitating the process of multilateral deliberation and negotiation. This will include providing substantive organizational support to the First Committee, the Disarmament Commission and other subsidiary bodies of the General Assembly, the Conference on Disarmament and its subsidiary bodies, review conferences and other meetings of parties to multilateral disarmament agreements, as well as to expert groups mandated by the General Assembly. This will also include monitoring and assessing current and future trends in the field of disarmament, non-proliferation in all its aspects and international security.

3.5 The Department will continue to be a source of impartial and factual information on disarmament and security-related matters for Member States, organizations of the United Nations system, intergovernmental and regional organizations and non-governmental organizations and will expand its educational outreach programmes. Training and advisory services will continue to be provided, through the United Nations Disarmament Fellowship, Training and Advisory Services Programme and the United Nations Institute for Disarmament Research, to Member States, in particular developing countries, to enable them to enhance their expertise in disarmament, so that they may participate more effectively in international deliberating and negotiating forums. The Department will also assist Member States in increasing understanding of the relationship between disarmament and development.

Peacekeeping operations

A. Peacekeeping operations

Overall orientation

4.1 The purpose of the programme is to support the maintenance of peace and security through the deployment of peacekeeping operations in accordance with and by authority derived from the principles and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations. The mandates of the programme are provided in resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly.

4.2 The programme closely coordinates five interdependent and complementary subprogrammes (operations, mission support, military, civilian police and mine-action coordination) and integrates cross-cutting responsibilities. Programme strategies are based on the development of capacities to address a wide variety of conflict situations and the need to plan, establish, manage and direct peacekeeping operations. A rapid and effective response to Security Council and General Assembly mandates is crucial for supporting the implementation of peace agreements between the parties to a conflict. Peacekeeping mandates may include the monitoring of ceasefires and buffer zones; disarming, demobilizing and reintegrating ex-combatants; reforming military establishments; training, advising, and monitoring police forces; creating security conditions conducive to the return of refugees and internally displaced populations; promoting electoral and judicial reform and assisting civil administrations; facilitating political processes to consolidate peace and legitimate government authority; coordinating economic rehabilitation and mine-clearance programmes; and facilitating the delivery of humanitarian assistance. Missions may also be mandated to maintain law and order and assume responsibility for a transitional administration or executive law enforcement, including criminal justice functions. The programme serves as the lead department in the implementation of integrated mandates, including multisectoral assistance operations, and provides logistical and administrative support, in addition to demining coordination. Regional approaches to peacekeeping, in terms of peacekeeping capacity, political strategies and common support for multiple operations, will be pursued when appropriate.

4.3 The programme will inform Member States on all phases of peacekeeping operations, paying particular attention to the requirements of troop and police contributors, which need to make informed decisions on their participation in peacekeeping missions. Special attention will be given to the safety and security of peacekeepers in the field. Careful consideration will also be given to gender and geographical balance in the staffing of peacekeeping operations.

4.4 Meeting the complex and evolving challenges of modern peacekeeping requires an integrated approach and greater coordination within the United Nations system and with external peacekeeping partners, including international financial institutions and regional organizations, to enhance the ability of the international community to maintain peace and security. To increase the programme's effectiveness, the research, analysis, review and application of peacekeeping best practices and lessons learned will continue, as will continued emphasis on proper conduct and tailored training for all peacekeeping personnel. In addition, the Department of Peacekeeping Operations will continue its gender mainstreaming strategy, aimed at providing better policies and programmes that take fully into account the impact of peacekeeping operations on women, men, girls and boys. This will entail the incorporation of gender perspectives in all peacekeeping activities, from the initial planning stages to the liquidation of a mission, as well as ensuring adequate gender expertise at Headquarters and in the field.

4.5 The programme will provide substantive and technical support to the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations, including follow-up on decisions related to peacekeeping operations taken by the Security Council and the General Assembly. The Department of Peacekeeping Operations will implement the recommendations of the Special Committee, as endorsed by the General Assembly.

Programme 5
Peaceful uses of outer space

Overall orientation

5.1 The overall purpose of the programme is the promotion of international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space for economic, social and scientific development, in particular for the benefit of developing countries. The programme evolved as a result of the recognition, by the General Assembly in its resolution 1348 (XIII), of the importance of using outer space exclusively for peaceful purposes and of the need to promote international cooperation in the conduct of space activities. The legislative authority and direction of the programme is drawn from relevant Assembly resolutions and the decisions of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, which was established in 1959 by Assembly resolution 1472 (XIV), its Legal Subcommittee and Scientific and Technical Subcommittee and their subsidiary bodies. Recommendations of particular relevance for the work to be undertaken under this programme are contained in the resolution entitled "The Space Millennium: Vienna Declaration on Space and Human Development", adopted by the Third United Nations Conference on the Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (UNISPACE III) and endorsed by the Assembly in its resolution 54/68.

5.2 By its resolution 59/2, the General Assembly reviewed the progress made in the implementation of the recommendations of UNISPACE III and endorsed the Committee's Plan of Action, contained in the Committee's related report (A/59/174). The report also considered the achievements of the Committee and its Subcommittees following the introduction of their revised agenda structures in 2000 and paved the way for further strengthening their role in promoting the peaceful uses of outer space. The Plan of Action constitutes a long-term strategy for enhancing mechanisms at the national, regional and global levels for developing and strengthening the use of space science and technology and their applications to support overarching global agendas for sustainable development; developing coordinated, global space capabilities; supporting specific agendas to meet human development needs at the global level; and supporting overarching capacity development. In implementing that strategy, the Committee will provide a bridge between users and potential providers of space-based development and services by identifying the needs of Member States and coordinating international cooperation to facilitate access to the scientific and technical systems that might meet them. To maximize the effectiveness of its resources, the Committee adopted a flexible and unique mechanism that takes advantage of partnerships established between its secretariat, Member States, intergovernmental organizations and international non-governmental organizations to implement the recommendations of UNISPACE III.

5.3 The programme will strengthen the international legal regime governing outer space, resulting in improved conditions for expanding international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space. The implementation of the programme will also strengthen efforts at the national, regional and global levels, including among entities of the United Nations system and international space-related entities, to maximize the benefits of the use of space science and technology and their applications.

Programme 7

Economic and social affairs

Overall orientation

7.1 The overall objective of the programme is to promote and support international cooperation in the pursuit of sustained economic growth, hunger and poverty eradication and sustainable development for all. The programme also seeks to contribute to a mutually reinforcing relationship between the development work of the United Nations and the other core elements of the United Nations wider work for its Member States and their peoples, on peace and security and human rights.

7.2 The programme is under the responsibility of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs. Its key programmatic thrusts are (a) to provide substantive support to the United Nations Charter bodies dealing with development issues, namely, the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and its related functional commissions, and expert bodies and (b) to analyse development prospects globally.

7.3 The programme takes an integrated approach, tackling the economic, social and environmental dimensions of development through normative, analytical and operational work. It applies that approach to the intergovernmental process as a whole, through which work on development issues takes place in five consecutive phases: (a) promoting understanding of common challenges; (b) building policy consensus on guiding principles and solutions; (c) forging international commitments and agreements, including specific courses of action; (d) facilitating implementation of commitments/translating agreements into action at the global, regional, national and local levels; (e) monitoring and evaluating progress and obstacles to progress.

7.4 New impetus for the programme has been provided by the 2005 World Summit, creating challenges and opportunities that will continue to shape its operating environment and priorities in the biennium 2008-2009. In this respect, the following three major aspects of the 2005 World Summit Outcome will underline the operating framework for the biennium: (a) an intensified focus on both implementing the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, generated by the United Nations conferences and summits, which together make up the United Nations development agenda, and realizing the global partnership for development, which was strongly reaffirmed at the 2005 World Summit and set out in the Millennium Declaration, Monterrey Consensus and Johannesburg Plan of Implementation; (b) a determination to foster a more coherent and effective United Nations, through better integration of economic, social and environmental policies at all levels, stronger links between normative, analytical and operational work, and better management of United Nations entities dealing with development, the environment and humanitarian assistance; and (c) a commitment to pursue greater engagement with other partners and institutional stakeholders, including the multilateral financial, trade and development institutions, as well as non-governmental organizations, civil society and the private sector.

7.5 The programme will continue to emphasize the mainstreaming of gender perspectives into all policies and programmes, which the 2005 World Summit recognized as an essential contribution to achieving gender equality and the internationally agreed development goals. The programme has played a leading role in fulfilling the Organization's responsibility to provide advice and support on this front.

7.6 The 2005 World Summit decisions on reform of the Economic and Social Council system in particular have put the Council, and thus the programme, at the centre of the effort to monitor and advance unified and coherent implementation of the United Nations development agenda. The Council's new functions include: (a) conducting annual ministerial reviews of progress towards agreed development goals; (b) convening the global Development Cooperation Forum; (c) building the Council's capacity to respond rapidly to trends or emergencies that may threaten development progress; (d) reconceiving its role in fostering global policy dialogue; and (e) playing a major role in overall coordination of United Nations system funds, programmes and agencies.

7.7 Providing effective support to these functions will require strategic integration, as well as strengthened coordination and coherence, both within the programme and within the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs. It will also require strengthening productive interfaces between the programme and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and between the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs and the United Nations Development Group. Efforts will be made to promote and develop new methods and mechanisms of better knowledge, through the establishment of new knowledge communities through the Intranet.

8.2 The mandate of the programme covers four main elements:

(a) Mobilization and coordination of international support for the effective implementation of: (i) the Brussels Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010; (ii) the Almaty Programme of Action: Addressing the Special Needs of Landlocked Developing Countries within a New Global Framework for Transit Transport Cooperation for Landlocked and Transit Developing Countries; and (iii) the Barbados Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States;

It will mobilize international support in favour of its constituencies in the areas of capacity-building and increased technical and financial resources in promoting sustained growth and sustainable development. Gender is an important dimension in the implementation of the three Programmes of Action.

8.4 The overall programme of work of the Office of the High Representative for the Least Developed Countries, Landlocked Developing Countries and Small Island Developing States is designed around three interdependent and complementary subprogrammes, namely, subprogramme 1, Least developed countries, subprogramme 2, Landlocked developing countries, and subprogramme 3, Small island developing States.

Programme 9

United Nations support for the New Partnership for Africa's Development

Overall orientation

9.1 The programme was established following the final review and appraisal of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s (UN-NADAF) in 2002. As a result of that review, the General Assembly adopted its resolution 57/7, which brought to a close UN-NADAF and endorsed the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD)[3] as the framework for international community support to African development. In its resolution 57/7, the Assembly also outlined the substantive areas and modalities for providing such support, inter alia, by underscoring the need for a structure in the Secretariat in New York to review and report on support provided by the United Nations system and the international community for NEPAD and on the coordinated implementation of outcomes of summit meetings and conferences as they related to Africa as well as to coordinate global advocacy in support of the New Partnership. In addition, the Assembly welcomed the actions being taken at the regional level by the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA) to organize the activities of the United Nations system around thematic clusters covering the priority areas of NEPAD and, in this regard, urged the strengthening of this process as a means of enhancing the effective response of the United Nations system in support of the New Partnership. Finally, it called upon the United Nations system to intensify its advocacy role and public information activities in support of Africa's development. Subsequent to resolution 57/7, in its resolution 57/300, the Assembly endorsed the creation of the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa and entrusted to the Special Adviser the role of coordinating reports and advocacy in support of NEPAD. The role of the Office in supporting NEPAD has been reaffirmed by the Assembly in a series of subsequent resolutions.

9.2 At the 2005 World Summit, world leaders reaffirmed their commitment to address the special needs of Africa, the only continent not on track to meet any of the goals of the Millennium Declaration by 2015. There is a commitment in NEPAD to achieve the Millennium Development Goals, which represents an important linkage with the Millennium Declaration. NEPAD substantially reflects the priorities on meeting the special needs of Africa as set out in the Millennium Declaration, namely: supporting the political and institutional structures of emerging democracies in Africa; building peacekeeping capacity further, in cooperation with regional organizations; taking special measures to address the challenges of poverty reduction and sustainable development by debt cancellation, increasing official development assistance, enhancing private capital flows and building capacities for trade; and helping Africa build its capacity to tackle the spread of HIV/AIDS and other infectious diseases. Consequently, through its support to NEPAD, this programme will also contribute substantively to the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals in Africa.

9.3 A major barrier to Africa's development has been the persistence of conflicts in some of the countries of the region. The need to develop a comprehensive response to promoting peace and security and development has long been recognized and was articulated in the report of the Secretary-General on the causes of conflict and the promotion of durable peace and sustainable development in Africa (A/52/871). Since 1998, a number of United Nations initiatives in Africa have been in line with the recommendations of the report, although a great deal still needs to be done. In recognition of this, by its resolution 60/223, the General Assembly called upon the Secretary-General to continue to monitor progress in implementation of the recommendations.

[3] NEPAD was formally adopted by the Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity at its thirty-seventh ordinary session, held in Lusaka in July 2001.

9.4 In accordance with the mandate provided in the General Assembly resolutions, the programme aims to: (a) mobilize the support and galvanize the efforts of the international community for African peace and development; (b) ensure that the development of Africa remains one of the main priorities of the international community; (c) promote a supportive international framework for African development efforts; (d) encourage a coordinated and effective response by the United Nations system at the policy and operational levels in support of African development; and (e) strengthen and enhance South-South cooperation in support of Africa's advancement.

9.5 Regional and international efforts have focused on the implementation of NEPAD and on assisting Africa's efforts in developing a robust architecture for peace and security. The programme will support those efforts through a mix of analytical work, advocacy and outreach, and improvement in the coordination of the work of the United Nations system in support of African development.

9.6 The Office of the Special Adviser for Africa provides overall coordination and leadership of the programme, which will be under the joint responsibility of the Office of the Special Adviser for Africa, ECA and the Department of Public Information.

It will seek to raise international awareness of African development issues through advocacy and catalytic activities, participation at key forums, encouragement of United Nations system coordination, promotion of South-South cooperation and engagement with civil society and the private sector.

9.8 In view of the interlinkages between peace and sustainable development in Africa, the subprogramme will continue to analyse and draw attention to the root causes of conflict in African countries, monitor early warning signals and make recommendations on steps which need to be taken to tackle violent conflicts in African countries.

9.9 The Office of the Special Adviser on Africa will continue to work closely with Member States, the African Union, the NEPAD secretariat, the entire United Nations system (including the Bretton Woods institutions), the Global Coalition for Africa and the Africa Partnership Forum in the performance of its functions. It will encourage the building of an international infrastructure consortium, with NEPAD as the main framework, to facilitate public and private infrastructure investment in Africa and will encourage and support the initiatives of the African Union and subregional organizations to prevent, mediate and resolve conflicts, with the assistance of the United Nations.

9.10 The Office of Special Adviser on Africa will also continue to establish and maintain contacts with civil society organizations and the private sector, promote South-South cooperation through, inter alia, the Tokyo International Conference on African Development process and provide support to various South-South forums. As a co-organizer of the Tokyo process and through its interactions with Member States from the South, the Office will continue to encourage forums that will result in practical measures to promote South-South cooperation to enable African countries to benefit from the sharing of experiences from other developing countries. Furthermore, the Office will closely monitor the follow-up on international commitments made to Africa in the context of the 2005 World Summit Outcome and other forums held in 2005. The Office of the Special Adviser on Africa will make available on its website summary updates of monitoring done by expert bodies of progress in implementing commitments made to Africa in this context.

9.12 The strategic focus of this subprogramme will be on strengthening inter-agency collaboration in the implementation of technical cooperation activities in support of the priorities identified in the action plans developed by the various thematic clusters. It will also focus on improving collaboration and coordination with the African Union, the African Development Bank, the NEPAD secretariat, the regional economic communities and regional organizations with a view to ensuring the effective implementation of NEPAD and the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals. Programme 10
Trade and development

Overall orientation

10.1 The main objective of the programme, implemented by the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) and the International Trade Centre UNCTAD/WTO (ITC), is to maximize the trade and development opportunities of developing countries and to assist them in their integration into the world economy in a manner that enhances the development opportunities offered by the globalization process, while helping to shape international economic relations in the twenty-first century.

10.2 The programme is guided by the sessions of UNCTAD, the Trade and Development Board and its subsidiary bodies, and the Commission on Science and Technology for Development. The decisions adopted at the eleventh session of the Conference, held in São Paulo in June 2004, formed the basis for building upon the work of the Conference. For the period 2008-2009, the programme will further integrate the outcomes of the twelfth session of UNCTAD, scheduled to take place in early 2008. The Conference is responsible for subprogrammes 1 to 5 within this programme, while subprogramme 6 is under the responsibility of the International Trade Centre.

10.3 The work of UNCTAD in its three pillars, namely, research and analysis, consensus-building and technical cooperation, will be strengthened. The independent analytical capacity of UNCTAD will be enhanced to ensure the high quality of research and analysis necessary to address key issues of importance to developing countries. The results of such analysis will support and reinforce its activities in consensus-building and technical cooperation.

10.4 Among the main objectives of the programme emanating from the outcomes of the eleventh session of UNCTAD, the examination of development strategies in a globalizing world economy is the principal task of subprogramme 1. Subprogrammes 2 and 4 will aim to contribute to building productive capacities and international competitiveness, while subprogramme 3 and the trade facilitation component of subprogramme 4 will aim to contribute to ensuring development gains from the international trading system and trade negotiations. Development strategies of countries in special situations will be covered under subprogramme 5, while sectoral concerns of those countries will also be addressed by other subprogrammes. The analytical work on the least developed countries will be more effectively mainstreamed. Integration of cross-cutting issues, such as South-South cooperation, poverty alleviation and the gender dimension, will receive the necessary consideration within the context of pursuing the foregoing objectives.

10.5 UNCTAD will make substantial contributions to the implementation of the outcomes of recent global conferences. Notably, it will contribute to the attainment of the international development goals contained in the Millennium Declaration and in the 2005 World Summit Outcome, in particular those related to global partnership for development, financing for development, domestic resource mobilization, investment, debt, trade, commodities, systemic issues and global economic decision-making, South-South cooperation, sustainable development, science and technology for development, countries with special needs and meeting the special needs of Africa.

10.6 UNCTAD will also contribute to the implementation of and take specific actions requested in the Brussels Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries, the Monterrey Consensus of the International Conference on Financing for Development, the outcomes of the Johannesburg World Summit on Sustainable Development, the outcomes of the World Summit on the Information Society, the Almaty Programme of Action for landlocked developing countries and the Mauritius Strategy for the sustainable development of small island developing States. In addition, it will contribute to furthering the implementation of the goals contained in the Doha Ministerial Declaration of the Fourth Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization and other relevant decisions in this respect.

10.7 In an effort to respond better to changing global demand and the required reform of the United Nations, UNCTAD will explore ways and means of contributing effectively to the work of the Peacebuilding Commission, with a view to integrating relevant countries, particularly post-conflict ones, in the global economy. UNCTAD will attempt first of all to take an organic approach that would enable it to address immediately and coherently issues of importance for developing countries facing the global challenges of today. The subprogramme for the development of Africa, least developed countries and countries in special situations intends to strengthen the subprogramme by maximizing the synergies of research and policy analysis and by taking a coherent approach to the issues of concern to those countries. The issue of science and technology, a sine qua non for development today, is addressed in an integrated manner across subprogrammes through a special organizational arrangement. That approach will be further applied to other areas in response to the evolving demands of developing countries facing the challenges of the modern economy. UNCTAD will also try to maximize its contribution by strengthening its role within the international development assistance community. It will focus on enhancing its intellectual contribution, which could be discharged through cooperative effort with other international organizations with greater country presence, or with such external entities as regional institutions, non-governmental organizations and the private sector. Furthermore, UNCTAD will cooperate more closely with other national and international think-tank-like institutions. Finally, it will strive to provide technical assistance in a more organized and streamlined fashion so as to better respond to the changing needs of beneficiaries with a view to enhancing its research and analysis, while maintaining its intellectual integrity and independence.

10.8 ITC will complement the work of its parent bodies, UNCTAD and the World Trade Organization, by focusing its technical cooperation activities on supporting the efforts of developing countries and countries with economies in transition, most particularly their business sectors, to maximize their trade and development opportunities and on assisting them in their integration into the world economy in a manner that enhances the development opportunities offered by the globalization process, while helping to shape international economic relations in the twenty-first century. Capacity-building support will be provided through information dissemination, training and advisory services that address both supply-side as well as market development constraints. Principal clients of such technical assistance are public and private sector trade support institutions and their networks that extend specialized trade support services to export enterprises. Africa and the least developed countries remain a priority for the Centre's technical assistance.

Strategy

10.16 The International Trade Centre bears substantive responsibility for the implementation of this subprogramme. Its strategic thrust is in line with the mandate accorded to it by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 1819/LV, by which the Council recognizes the International Trade Centre as the focal point for technical assistance and cooperation activities in the export promotion field within the United Nations system of assistance to developing countries. The subprogramme will focus on the implementation of international development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration, and to the follow-up of the 2005 World Summit Outcome. It will also contribute to the implementation of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010, the Monterrey Consensus, the Johannesburg Declaration on Sustainable Development and the Declaration of Principles and the Plan of Action of the Tunis World Summit on the Information Society. The subprogramme will play an important role in furthering the implementation of the World Trade Organization Doha and Hong Kong Ministerial Declarations, particularly by involving the business community in trade negotiations and explaining to it the implications of the multilateral trading system for the business sector.

10.17 The strategic objective of the subprogramme is to assist developing countries and economies in transition to enhance their international competitiveness, increase exports and improve import operations with a corresponding impact on employment and poverty reduction. In pursuing its objective, the subprogramme will build on results achieved and lessons learned in the biennium 2006-2007. In its continued efforts to address the Millennium Development Goals, the subprogramme will continue to explore innovative approaches to link poor producers to global value chains and international markets to ensure the sustainability of poverty reduction initiatives. Focus will be placed on work with small and medium-scale enterprises in sectors with possibilities for strong backward linkages with the informal sector. Priority will be given to the development of innovative forms of cooperation and alliances with new partners to address sustainable trade development for the Millennium Development Goals, including the corporate sector, academia, non-governmental organizations and other development actors, through, in particular, enhanced partnerships in the areas of poverty reduction and gender equality. The subprogramme will continue to involve its country programme partners in monitoring progress against the Millennium Development Goals, targets and indicators, and measuring results and the contribution of the International Trade Centre to the goals.

10.18 To achieve its expected accomplishments, the International Trade Centre will pursue the following specific strategies: (a) to support priority-setting by trade strategists and managers of trade support institutions; (b) to provide market information and decision-support assistance to enterprise managers; (c) to assist in creating a more supportive environment to boost international trade activities by businesses, in particular small and medium-scale enterprises, through its work with network partners and trade support institutions; (d) to facilitate the development of effective information services of national and sectoral trade support institutions and their networks so that they can meet the information needs of their respective business communities; (e) to build capacities of regional and national institutions to offer management, exporting and e-trade training to small and medium-scale, enterprises and business start-ups, to assess small and medium-scale enterprises resource needs and broker solutions; (f) to provide responses to the most urgent export development needs at the product sector and market development levels by providing assistance to sector associations, trade support institutions and directly to small and medium-scale exporting enterprises; (g) to engage the business community and build capacity to deliver export promotion programmes and training within a wide range of trade support institutions for the benefit of small and medium-scale enterprises in the services sector, including their participation in the General Agreement on Trade in Services; (h) to enhance enterprise competitiveness through more effective and efficient supply-chain management, including the development and implementation of market-oriented sector diagnostics and strategies based on a value-chain approach.

10.19 Additional partnerships and key strategic alliances will continue to be sought to complement the Centre's fields of expertise and to allow for increased delivery in sectors and regions where demand has surpassed the Centre's ability to deliver. This will include new alliances with the private sector, an increased number and new models of partnerships with national and regional partners in developing countries and a greater degree of coherence and stronger collaboration with United Nations agencies involved in trade-related capacity-building, particularly with the Centre's parent organizations (UNCTAD and the World Trade Organization). The International Trade Centre will work closely with other agencies under the "enhanced integrated framework" and "aid for trade" initiatives and bring to bear its core expertise in export promotion. Partnerships with existing partners and trade-related capacity-building providers, such as the Commonwealth secretariat, the World Bank/Foreign Investment Advisory Service, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the International Organization for Standardization, the regional economic commissions and the World Intellectual Property Organization, will be strengthened. Direct collaboration with bilateral technical cooperation agencies, primarily from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development countries, in the design and implementation of field-level activities will be reinforced. This will be based on a more strategic approach to the Centre's relations with its donors and will include the programme-based approach, multi-year commitments, a greater share of unearmarked funding and the harmonization and streamlining of the Centre's reporting requirements. Partnership with the private sector will remain a priority for the Centre, as it has already been able to successfully foster new strategic alliances with a number of private sector entities that are either funding its programmes or are direct partners in its activities.

Programme 11
Environment

Overall orientation

11.1 Within the United Nations system the principal responsibility for environment is vested with the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP).

11.2 The mandate for programme 11 derives from General Assembly resolution 2997 (XXVII) of 15 December 1972, which established the Governing Council of UNEP, the Environment Secretariat and the Environment Fund. The Governing Council, in its decision 19/1 of 7 February 1997, redefined and clarified the role and mandate of UNEP in the Nairobi Declaration on the Role and Mandate of UNEP, which the Assembly subsequently endorsed in the annex to its resolution S/19-2 of 28 June 1997. The Assembly elaborated further on the mandate of UNEP in its resolution 53/242 of 28 July 1999. The Assembly, most recently in its resolution 60/189 of 22 December 2005, reaffirmed the role of UNEP as the principal body within the United Nations system in the field of environment, welcomed the Governing Council's adoption of the Bali Strategic Plan for Technology Support and Capacity-building and called for the intensification of ongoing efforts to implement it.

11.3 While additional mandates related to substantive focal areas covered in the programme come from the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and the decisions of the Governing Council, the goals identified in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation and the outcomes of the World Summit on Sustainable Development provide both a broader perspective and a clear road map for the implementation of the programme in the context of system-wide objectives and priorities. In its resolution 60/1, entitled "2005 World Summit Outcome", the Assembly acknowledged that poverty eradication, changing unsustainable patterns of production and consumption and protecting and managing the natural resource base of economic and social development are the overarching objectives of and essential requirements for sustainable development.

11.4 The overall objective of the programme is to promote the coherent implementation of the environmental dimension of sustainable development by keeping the environment under review and responding to environmental challenges. The programme will thus contribute to the achievement of the internationally agreed goal on environmental sustainability. In addition, the programme will promote the mainstreaming of the environment into development planning and processes, in support of national and international efforts towards achieving other internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and in the outcomes of major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992, particularly the goal of the Millennium Declaration to eradicate extreme poverty and hunger, as achieving this goal depends, inter alia, on a sustainable natural resource base to support the livelihoods of the people.

11.5 The elements of the strategy in meeting the overall objective will include:

(a) Bringing critical environmental issues to the attention of decision makers at the national and international levels, as well as to that of all stakeholders and the general public, by undertaking and facilitating environmental assessments; developing and strengthening a network of partner institutions, building on existing networks and partnerships to contribute to environmental data generation, monitoring and assessment processes; and raising awareness and disseminating information and early warnings;

(b) Encouraging and facilitating policy dialogue and cooperation between countries and between regions, including South-South cooperation, to address environmental issues of global and regional importance by catalysing and providing substantive and organizational support for intergovernmental consultations and initiatives in the regions, such as the New Partnership for Africa's Development, and participating in the United Nations coordinating mechanisms at the regional level;

(c) Providing broad policy advice and guidance for the direction and coordination of environmental programmes within the United Nations system by working through the Environment Management Group, the United Nations Development Group and other coordination mechanisms;

(d) Enabling and facilitating the taking of appropriate action by national authorities, business and industry, and civil society to respond to environmental issues and sustainable development challenges by assisting in the integration of environmental considerations in their decision-making and policy planning, including poverty eradication strategies; assisting in the development and implementation of environmentally sound policies (e.g., on sustainable consumption and production), strategies, technologies and practices for natural resources management and for business, industry and trade operations; assisting in strengthening legal frameworks, building institutions, promoting strategic partnerships and brokering innovative financing options; and preparing them to respond to and mitigate environmental impacts of natural disasters and post-conflict situations;

(e) Supporting the implementation of multilateral environmental agreements and facilitating interlinkages and synergies between them, including through the provision of UNEP technical assistance, to enable countries to meet their obligations under the agreements, while respecting the autonomous legal status of the agreements and the decisions of their respective governing bodies.

11.6 In implementing the programme strategy, major emphasis will be placed on furthering the implementation of the Bali Strategic Plan at the national, subregional, and regional levels, along the lines initiated in the 2006-2007 biennium. Commensurate with the availability of resources, UNEP will adopt a systematic and incremental approach towards building up its capacity to support the implementation of the Plan, based on the priority needs identified at the national, subregional and regional levels, and in line with its comparative advantages. Special attention will be given to strengthening cross-sectoral issues, namely, integrated assessment and management capacities, environmental institutions, legislation, financing, human resources and technological capacities, in the implementation of the Plan.

11.7 In pursuing its objectives, UNEP will continue to integrate and mainstream the gender equality perspective in all subprogrammes, particularly in the work related to environmental policy and law development, communication and outreach, sustainable management of natural resources and sustainable consumption patterns. The capacity of UNEP in this respect will be strengthened.

11.8 To benefit from synergies and comparative advantages and to promote system-wide coherence, UNEP will work in close cooperation and coordination with other multilateral bodies and specialized agencies, especially with members of the United Nations Development Group. In this context, particular emphasis will be placed on further development and operationalization of the memorandum of understanding between UNEP and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in order to fully utilize the expertise available in the UNDP country offices. UNEP intends to take a more active part in the common country assessment processes, United Nations Development Assistance Framework activities and the poverty eradication strategy processes.

11.9 The programme will be responding to the needs of Member States at the global, regional, subregional, national and local levels, in accordance with the relevant mandates, through a functional structure comprising headquarters-based divisions and a network of regional offices, corresponding to the seven subprogrammes constituting the programme. While the substantive responsibility for programme implementation rests with the divisions, regional offices will coordinate the coherent delivery of the programme at the national and regional levels and facilitate synergies with relevant programmes implemented by United Nations agencies, in particular those within the framework of the United Nations Development Group, the private sector, major groups and civil society at large.

11.10 As an implementing agency of the Global Environment Facility, UNEP will continue providing assistance to eligible countries in the development and implementation of projects in the six focal areas of the Facility, in accordance with the guidance from the governing bodies of the multilateral environmental agreements whose implementation of the Global Environment Facility serves as a funding mechanism. Special attention will also be given to needs of African countries, least developed countries and small island developing States. UNEP will continue to provide secretariat support to the Scientific and Technical Advisory Panel of the Global Environment Facility, and scientific and technical advice to the Facility on its policies and programmes. UNEP will focus on areas of comparative advantage and aim to process proposals as efficiently as possible.

Human settlements

Overall orientation

12.1 Responsibility for human settlements is vested in the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat), which serves as the focal point for implementation of the programme within the United Nations system. The current mandate of UN-Habitat derives from the twin goals of the Habitat Agenda, resulting from the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II), which comprise "adequate shelter for all" and "sustainable human settlements development in an urbanizing world". The mandate of the programme also derives from: resolution 3327 (XXIX), in which the General Assembly established the United Nations Habitat and Human Settlements Foundation; resolution 32/162, in which the Assembly established the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat); and resolution 56/206, by which the Assembly elevated the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) to the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat). UN-Habitat is guided by its Governing Council, which reports every two years to the General Assembly through the Economic and Social Council and by a Committee of Permanent Representatives in Nairobi, which serves as a formal intersessional body. Important recent mandates derive from the Declaration on Cities and other Human Settlements in the New Millennium, which was adopted by the Assembly in its resolution S-25/2, other internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, such as the target of achieving a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum-dwellers by the year 2020, and in the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992, such as target 10 on water and sanitation of the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation. The aforementioned two targets were subsequently reaffirmed by the General Assembly in the 2005 World Summit Outcome, which highlighted slum prevention as a priority issue in human settlements. Additional mandates come from relevant legislative bodies regarding Agenda 21 (chaps. 7, 21 and 28) and relevant resolutions of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme.

12.2 The world urban population is currently expanding at the rate of about 70 million people per year. Most of those people live in overcrowded urban slums where the main challenges are inadequate housing, lack of secure tenure, uncertain employment and lack of basic services, especially safe water and sanitation. Rapid urbanization in most developing countries is characterized by deterioration in shelter conditions for the urban poor, while conflicts and disasters compound the daunting task of creating sustainable human settlements. Central to meeting the challenge of urban poverty is the replacement of policies that foster social and physical exclusion with policies that recognize and respect the rights of all, especially women, people living in poverty and those belonging to vulnerable and disadvantaged groups, to an adequate standard of living for themselves and their families, including adequate food, clothing, housing, water and sanitation, and the continuous improvement of living conditions. In consultation and cooperation with Governments, UN-Habitat develops and strengthens mechanisms for monitoring the impact of human settlements policies and programmes on the lives and livelihoods of women, men and children in cities, especially those in low-income areas and slums.

12.3 The UN-Habitat programme is based on strong interlinkages among the four subprogrammes, namely: shelter and sustainable human settlements development; monitoring the Habitat Agenda; regional and technical cooperation; and human settlements financing. Those interlinkages will be reflected in the close cooperation among the subprogrammes, with the global campaigns on secure tenure and urban governance providing an entry point for all work programme activities.

12.4 The strategy of UN-Habitat in meeting its mandates rests upon four pillars that correspond to its four subprogrammes:

(a) Advocacy of agreed norms for improving the lives of poor people, particularly slum-dwellers, and building the capacity of central Governments and local authorities using as primary vehicles the two global campaigns on secure tenure and urban governance (subprogramme 1: shelter and sustainable human settlements development);

(b) Information generation and knowledge management for assessing progress made in implementing the Habitat Agenda and monitoring human settlements conditions and trends, with a particular focus on slum formation and the living conditions of slum-dwellers (subprogramme 2: monitoring the Habitat Agenda);

(c) Operational activities focusing on technical assistance and capacity-building to test methods and concepts to be scaled up and transferred and to provide feedback to policymakers at all levels (subprogramme 3: regional and technical cooperation);

(d) Facilitating pro-poor financing of housing and urban infrastructure and services that contribute to sustainable human settlements development and the improvement of living conditions of slum-dwellers (subprogramme 4: human settlements financing).

12.5 The foregoing strategy of the programme is subject to an ongoing strategic planning and institutional development exercise initiated in 2005, further to the recommendations of an in-depth evaluation of the programme completed by the Office of Internal Oversight Services in 2005 and subsequently endorsed by the Governing Council of UN-Habitat at its twentieth session, also held in 2005. The recommendations called for the strengthening of the programme's normative focus, greater cohesion among its advocacy, normative, monitoring and operational activities, and the broadening of the programme's funding base. The first phase of the exercise, to be carried out throughout 2006, is designed to catalyse the 2008-2013 medium-term strategic and institutional plan to be presented to the Governing Council at its twenty-first session in 2007. The preliminary results of that exercise are already reflected in the present document in two key areas:

(a) The strengthening of the programme's normative activities, spearheaded by its global campaigns on secure tenure and urban governance, through their tightened relationship with global programmes and their alignment with the Millennium Declaration target on slums (see para. 12.11 below);

(b) The re-allocation of activities devoted to human settlements financing, previously subsumed under subprogramme 2 (monitoring the Habitat Agenda) to subprogramme 4 (human settlements financing) to ensure greater cohesiveness among substantively related advocacy, monitoring and normative activities.

12.6 UN-Habitat will continue to mainstream the gender perspective in human settlements issues and empower women. The programme's efforts in promoting women's access to shelter were further endorsed by the General Assembly in the 2005 World Summit Outcome (see resolution 60/1, para. 58) by guaranteeing women's free and equal rights to own and inherit property and ensuring security of tenure of property and housing.

12.7 The work of UN-Habitat is concentrated in developing countries, countries with economies in transition and countries where sustainable human settlements are necessary for effective post-conflict and post-disaster recovery and reconstruction. As the focal point for the implementation of the human settlements programme within the United Nations system, UN-Habitat will collaborate and cooperate with other United Nations organizations. Outside the United Nations, UN-Habitat will also cooperate with Governments, local authorities, international financial institutions, regional development banks, the private sector and other Habitat Agenda partners. A significant mechanism for cooperation with Governments and Habitat Agenda partners is the World Urban Forum, which is held every two years to address pressing human settlements issues.

12.8 The Governing Council of UN-Habitat is expected to approve at its twenty-first session in April 2007 the medium-term strategic and institutional plan 2008-2013 of UN-Habitat. The outcome of the Governing Council decision on the plan may necessitate substantive revisions to the proposals in the present report. If it is deemed necessary to reflect the recommendations of the medium-term strategic and institutional plan to align it with the proposals in the present report, the provisions of resolution 58/269 are expected to prevail.

12.9 The responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the Shelter and Sustainable Human Settlements Development Division. The subprogramme's main strategy, consisting of global advocacy, will be spearheaded by the third session of the World Urban Forum, the global campaigns for secure tenure and urban governance and supported by global programmes. The two campaigns will be aligned with efforts to attain the Millennium Declaration target of achieving a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum-dwellers by the year 2020 and the target on water and sanitation of the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation to reduce by half the proportion of people without access to safe drinking water and basic sanitation by the year 2015.

12.10 The subprogramme will seek to mobilize all Habitat Agenda partners to enhance the global visibility and impact of the campaigns to achieve the goal not only of slum upgrading but also of slum prevention in order to avoid the escalation of the urbanization crisis. The campaigns will serve as entry points to the implementation of the Habitat Agenda and link operational and normative activities at all levels. Particular focus will be placed on new forms of urban planning as integral parts of good urban governance and as cost-effective ways to achieve slum prevention and upgrading, as emphasized by the General Assembly in paragraph 56 (m) of the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

12.11 The global programmes, which include normative, capacity-building and knowledge management activities on secure tenure, housing and property rights, land and property administration, urban environmental management, water and sanitation, disaster prevention and management and safer cities, will be carried out within the context of the campaigns, thereby assisting in translating normative work into practical real life processes at the national and community levels. The global programmes will support national campaign launches and the implementation of follow-up national campaign action plans through the development of new policies and tools. The capacity at the national and local levels to undertake effective planning, management and delivery of shelter, land, infrastructure and services will be supported by dedicated training and capacity-building programmes and institutional strengthening. A special feature of the strategy will be to focus on the role of women and youth, community-based organizations and people affected by HIV/AIDS as active participants and beneficiaries in the efforts to improve shelter conditions, urban governance and access to basic services.

12.12 For water and sanitation, the focus will be on establishing strategic partnerships among key water and sanitation stakeholders to promote increasing levels of pro-poor investment. The UN-Habitat Water for African Cities and Water for Asian Cities programmes aim to strengthen the capacity of cities to improve coverage at the municipal level. Major focus will be placed on change strategies that are locally owned and on activities designed to strengthen the political will to adopt pro-poor investment policies and regulations. In that context, the Water and Sanitation Trust Fund will be used as a tool to leverage and improve aid effectiveness from donor sources and to field-test investment designs for long-term sustainability.

International drug control, crime and terrorism prevention and criminal justice

Overall orientation

13.1 In the United Nations Millennium Declaration the General Assembly established the achievement of sustainable development as an aim of the Organization. Sustainable development has many dimensions. It requires that the resources of the planet be shared so as to promote human dignity. It also requires good stewardship of those resources so that future generations may inherit a better world. Moreover, it is important to free individuals from the burden of "uncivil" behaviour in order to safeguard their survival, dignity and livelihood and assist in regenerating community values to prevent crime. This aspect is at the core of the work of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, which is mandated to assist Member States in their struggle against illicit drugs, crime and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations. In the Millennium Declaration, Member States also resolved to intensify efforts to fight transnational crime in all its dimensions, to redouble the efforts to implement the commitment to counter the world drug problem and to take concerted action against international terrorism in all its forms and manifestations.

13.2 Actions against the world drug problem, global criminal activity and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations are a common and shared responsibility that must be addressed in a multilateral setting and require an integrated and balanced approach.

13.3 The General Assembly, in the 2005 World Summit Outcome, clearly recognized organized crime and terrorism among the major security concerns. This has articulated clearly the strategic position of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime within the general nexus of development, security and human rights.

13.4 The policy directions of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime are grounded in: (a) the international drug control conventions, the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto, the United Nations Convention against Corruption and the universal legal instruments against terrorism in all its forms and manifestations; (b) the Millennium Declaration; (c) key resolutions of legislative organs, in particular General Assembly resolution 46/152, establishing the crime prevention and criminal justice programme, and resolutions 45/179 and 46/185 C on the drug control programme; (d) the twentieth special session of the General Assembly on countering the world drug problem; (e) the Vienna Declaration on Crime and Justice: Meeting the Challenges of the Twenty-first Century, adopted by the Tenth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders (General Assembly resolution 55/59, annex), the related plans of action (General Assembly resolution 56/261, annex) and the Bangkok Declaration on Synergies and Responses: Strategic Alliances in Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, adopted by the Eleventh United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (General Assembly resolution 60/177, annex); and (f) the recommendations resulting from the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

13.5 The three pillars of the work programme of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime are:

(a) Research and analytical work to increase knowledge and understanding of drug, crime and terrorism issues and to expand the evidence base for making policy and operational decisions;

(b) Normative work to assist States in the ratification and implementation of international treaties, the development of domestic legislation on drugs, crime and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations and the provision of secretariat and substantive services to the relevant treaty-based and governing bodies;

(c) Field-based technical cooperation projects, upon request, to enhance the capacity of Member States to counteract illicit drugs, crime and terrorism.

13.6 Globalization has created an environment where illicit drugs, crime and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations can flow easily across borders. The welfare gains to be derived from open trade and the flow of public goods are offset, however, by the globalization of threats to the survival, dignity and livelihood of individuals. The interventions of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime are therefore designed to contribute to the achievement of security and justice for all: making the world safer from crime, drugs and terrorism.

13.7 This vision is comprehensive and forward-looking and sets the frame of the medium-term strategy of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, which is currently being developed. That strategy is based on extensive consultations with internal/external stakeholders and experts and aims at balancing comprehensiveness with selection. It is set against the need to clearly delineate the comparative advantage of the Office and set the stage for increased partnership strategies with major players in related fields.

13.8 In pursuing its objectives, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime will make every effort to integrate the gender perspective, particularly in its projects in the areas of prevention, the provision of alternative livelihoods and human trafficking.

Programme 18

Economic and social development in Western Asia

Overall orientation

18.1 The overall orientation of programme 18 is to foster comprehensive, equitable, integrated and sustainable development and economic and social cooperation in the region and to maintain and strengthen economic relations between the member countries of the Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA) and other countries of the world. ESCWA is responsible for the implementation of the programme.

18.2 Policy direction for the programme is provided in Economic and Social Council resolutions 1818 (LV) of 9 August 1973 and 1985/69 of 26 July 1985, establishing ESCWA and amending its terms of reference to underscore the social functions of the Commission. Further direction is provided in ESCWA resolution 220 (XX) of 27 May 1999, by which the ESCWA member countries adopted the Beirut Declaration, which envisioned an enhanced role for the Commission at the regional level, and by the recommendation of the Commission at its twenty-first session (May 2001) that activities focus on a limited number of priorities, on Arab regional integration and on the study of mechanisms that would activate such integration (see E/2001/41, para. 82). The internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and in the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992, dealing with such matters as trade, sustainable development, social development, finance and information and communication technologies, provide further policy direction to the programme.

18.3 Political instability, foreign occupation and the lack of adequate structural reforms influence economic performance in the countries of the region. While recent hikes in international energy prices have brought a surge of economic boom in most energy exporting countries of the region, other countries continue to face difficulties in mobilizing domestic and foreign direct investment. The region is in need of economic and social policies that ensure social justice and equitable distribution of wealth. The prevalence of technology in the region, especially information and communication technologies — a powerful enabler of development — remains below the international average.

18.4 Furthermore, the region has the second highest population growth in the world, following Africa, creating increasing demand for food, water and energy and adequate infrastructure to provide basic shelter, education, health care and other social services and productive employment opportunities. This requires the countries of the region to coordinate efforts and mobilize more resources for the provision of regional public goods, including water management, environmental sustainability, the social safety net and coordination and harmonization in trade policies and procedures, transport infrastructure and conflict resolution and peacebuilding.

18.5 The countries of the region also continue to experience some of the highest unemployment rates in the world, especially among the youth. Migration, both towards and away from ESCWA countries, is a regional issue that needs to be addressed within the framework of international human rights treaties, taking into account regional economic considerations. Women's equal right to and opportunity for economic and political participation should be further encouraged, although the region has achieved general success in making the secondary and tertiary education systems far more accessible to both sexes equally. Among the vulnerable groups, those who suffer most live in the least developed and conflict-stricken countries of the region.

18.6 There persists a strong need to improve the institutional capacity to produce timely, reliable and comparable statistics for policy and programme formulation and for monitoring the progress made towards the achievement of internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. Regular monitoring of the effects of foreign occupation on economic and social development in the region is increasingly becoming important.

18.7 For the biennium 2008-2009, ESCWA will pursue the programme objective by promoting economic and social integration among its member countries at the subregional and regional levels and fostering solidarity in the international political arena and global economy. Such regional integration between member countries could be scaled up to cover the Arab region through strategic partnerships with subregional and regional organizations, especially the League of Arab States (LAS) and the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). The programme will focus on the four regional priority areas: (a) managing water and energy; (b) promoting integrated social policies; (c) stimulating economic development and integration in the increasingly globalizing world; and (d) accelerating the introduction and development of technology, especially information and communication technology. Throughout the programme, the emphasis will be placed on the effective participation and involvement of women and their advancement, special consideration for the people living in conflict-stricken countries and statistical capacity development. Attention should be focused on Arab regional integration and the study of mechanisms that would activate this integration.

18.8 ESCWA will carry out analytical and normative work, building on its accumulated knowledge and multidisciplinary expertise, which will be supported by the provision of technical cooperation. It will also facilitate multilateral dialogue, knowledge-sharing and networking on the outcome of the Commission's work and the national, regional and global development issues. In addition, ESCWA will provide a regional platform for the member countries to formulate and implement regional initiatives, agreements and programmes.

18.9 It is expected that regional support provided by ESCWA will contribute towards: (a) increased national capacity to formulate and implement economic and social policies and programmes that are pro-poor and inclusive, and to tackle transboundary issues; (b) provision of joint responses to address multifaceted problems encountered by the countries in the region through the coordinated efforts and consolidated resources of the United Nations entities; (c) enhanced work of the Economic and Social Council and its functional commissions for the review and assessment of progress made in implementing the outcomes of United Nations conferences and summits in the economic, social and related fields; and (d) increased knowledge-sharing and South-South cooperation among the countries in the region and with countries in other regions, thereby promoting regional and interregional cooperation.

18.10 The programme will be harmonized through regular interaction with the other entities of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs and the entities of the United Nations Development Group. The latter will be achieved through the Regional Coordination Group, which is led by ESCWA. ESCWA will enhance its collaboration with the subregional office for North Africa of the Economic Commission for Africa to ensure synergies in thematic and operational work and to bring its expertise to the countries in the North African subregion, which share common language and cultural values.

18.11 For the period 2008-2009, subprogrammes 3 and 4 are proposed to be merged into one subprogramme. An internal review carried out in December 2005 demonstrated that many mandates were common to both subprogrammes. Hence, issues of economic growth and development and financing for development issues, including the implementation of the Monterrey Consensus, which have been dealt with by two subprogrammes in the past few years, are proposed to become the responsibility of subprogramme 3, Economic development and integration, to complement and increase synergy. Consolidating the two subprogrammes will also facilitate the strategic repositioning of economic analysis work with a view to making it more objective-oriented, that is, geared to achieving sustained high growth, employment creation and/or poverty alleviation, on the one hand, and creating space for operationalizing findings, conclusions and recommendations of studies and meetings into policy advice and capacity development, on the other.

18.12 Furthermore, a new subprogramme 7 is proposed on conflict mitigation and development that will address the impact of the persistent instability and conflict on economic and social development in Western Asia, which affects not only the countries concerned but also neighbouring countries and the region as a whole. The subprogramme aims to give concrete expression to the interlinkages between peace and security, development and human rights, in accordance with the 2005 World Summit Outcome and relevant ESCWA resolutions. The subprogramme focuses on pursuing sustainable development goals in a context of tension and insecurity to address the increasing poverty levels and the deteriorating quality of life in the afflicted areas. It will also increase understanding of the causes of conflict and instability to enable the countries to take appropriate measures to reduce their vulnerability, strengthen advocacy and capacity-building on issues of good governance and promote the replication of good practices.

Strategy

18.13 The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Sustainable Development and Productivity Division. The subprogramme will concentrate on facilitating the formulation and implementation of sustainable development strategies, policies and programmes in light of the relevant global mandates arising from the 2005 World Summit, the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation and the Millennium Development Goals, particularly goal 1 (eradicate extreme poverty and hunger) and goal 7 (ensure environmental sustainability), including improved access to safe drinking water and basic sanitation to a wider section of the region's population. The subprogramme will continue to advocate sustainable production and consumption patterns of water and energy resources and serve as a forum for promoting policy dialogue as a means to enhance synergy among the member countries of the Commission on sustainable development priority issues; facilitate cooperation among its member States, in particular in the management of shared water resources and the development of energy networks, and enhance negotiation skills to prevent water and environment-related disputes; support national and regional capacity-building, especially in the field of integrated management of water resources, energy efficiency, renewable energy and technology applications; and assist member countries in building capacity for sustainable rural development.

18.14 This will be achieved by undertaking research and analytical studies, convening meetings and seminars, disseminating best practices and building capacity through workshops and advisory services on priority sustainable development issues related to water, energy, the environment and the production sectors.

18.15 The subprogramme will also further develop its partnership with LAS, promote the existing ESCWA regional mechanisms on energy and water, facilitate the establishment of coordination mechanisms for monitoring and reporting on environmental issues and assist member States to strengthen the capacity of small and medium enterprises to take advantage of new management practices and the harnessing of technologies that can enhance their competitiveness and productivity in a sustainable manner.

Strategy

18.16 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Social Development Division. The subprogramme provides a neutral forum for promoting policy dialogue, networking and replication of best practices among the member countries.

18.17 It will continue to advocate and enhance the capacity of member countries to formulate coherent and integrated social policies, including appropriate population and migration policies and national urban policies and policies that focus on women, youth and persons with disabilities. The subprogramme will assist member countries in the implementation of the plans of action of the relevant global conferences, with a focus on the Millennium Development Goals.

18.18 Increased attention will be focused in 2008-2009 on intersectoral social development programmes and projects, with particular regard to poverty and unemployment reduction, with a focus on youth, women and persons with disabilities, to enable the region to benefit from their huge potential and move towards greater social equity.

18.19 To achieve the expected accomplishments, the subprogramme will undertake analytical work, conduct meetings and carry out technical cooperation activities, including training workshops and programmes, field projects and advisory services on priority social issues. It will promote and advocate partnerships between stakeholders, especially at the local and national levels, to enhance the participatory approach, in order to draw suitable social policies that take into consideration the needs and requirements of all segments of the population. This approach has proved to increase the chances of success of such policies.

18.20 Partnership will be forged with other related United Nations organizations, such as the United Nations Population Fund, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the International Labour Organization and the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, with regional organizations, such as LAS and its relevant subsidiary bodies, and with civil society, including local communities and non-governmental organizations.

(e) Increased facilitation of transboundary flows of goods, services, persons and capital among member countries	(e) Number of countries accepting and/or adopting harmonization schemes proposed by ESCWA in order to facilitate transboundary flows of goods, persons and capital

Strategy

18.21 The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Economic Development and Integration Division. The Millennium Development Goals, the Monterrey Consensus on Financing for Development and relevant General Assembly and ESCWA resolutions, and the Doha Development Agenda provide the legislative authority for the subprogramme.

18.22 With economic growth in the region closely tied to the performance of the oil sector and characterized by big fluctuations and low trickle-down effects to the rest of the economy as well as the low absorption of labour, the subprogramme will address issues of economic diversification in relation to growth-fostering policies. Hence, it will focus on providing in-depth analyses, including on the social impact of economic development, and disseminate forecasts of economic growth to assist the member countries to adopt corrective policies for more balanced socio-economic development and growth, and for achieving the relevant Millennium Development Goals in the region.

18.23 The subprogramme provides the forum for member countries to discuss key regional issues and reach common understanding. It will continue to advocate the need for strengthening regional economic cooperation and integration as the means of widening the regional market to increase competitiveness, reduce risks and uncertainties and facilitate integration in the global economy.

18.24 Support will be provided to the member countries in implementing the recommendations of the Monterrey Consensus on Financing for Development, with emphasis on an integrated approach, and work towards achieving the goals of the Consensus. This includes increasing the capacity of member countries to formulate and implement appropriate domestic resource mobilization strategies, sound investment policies, improved foreign-debt management schemes and more effective trade policies.

18.25 The need is evident to enhance the region's capacity to formulate and implement trade policies in a coherent manner, ensuring that development is incorporated into the trade agenda. This would necessitate building the capacities of trade officials involved in trade negotiations and trade facilitation measures, in particular through information and communication technology applications.

18.26 Despite the various efforts made towards regional integration among member States in the 1950s, the basic requirements for achieving economic integration have not been established. In a world moving increasingly towards the establishment of large economic blocs, regional economic integration becomes a matter of vital importance. Two major impediments to regional and international integration and increased competitiveness are backwardness of the transport sector and obstacles and barriers to participation in the multilateral trading system.

18.27 ESCWA will also continue its pioneering work on ITSAM, including the implementation and monitoring of the international transport agreements and the harmonization and simplification of border-crossing and transit procedures. Moreover, an action plan on road safety in member countries will be developed.

18.28 The subprogramme will achieve its expected accomplishments through analytical studies, expert group meetings and technical cooperation activities, comprising capacity-building workshops, advisory services, networking and knowledge-sharing as well as field projects. Attention will be provided to outreach and to increase the interaction between officials in the region through networking arrangements that would facilitate the exchange of experiences and lessons learned and enhance dialogue.

18.29 Emphasis will also be placed on strengthening the negotiation skills of member States in respect of the World Trade Organization negotiation process, continuing to increase their understanding of the opportunities and challenges presented by the World Trade Organization as well as regional integration agreements, defining obstacles and barriers to participation in the multilateral trading system and organizing awareness drives on the role of the Arab free-trade area and other bilateral agreements. Support will be provided in enhancing regional development by analysing existing credit and investment policies and formulating specific recommendations for the improvement of existing investment laws, regulations and incentives in order to increase significantly the attractiveness of member countries to domestic and foreign investors, with particular emphasis on interregional capital flows and the return of capital invested outside the region.

18.30 This will be achieved by further strengthening partnership with relevant United Nations organizations such as the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the World Trade Organization, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and the other regional commissions, as well as regional organizations, mainly LAS and GCC and their subsidiary bodies. Close cooperation with non-governmental organizations, chambers of commerce and other relevant private sector enterprises will also be pursued.

Information and communication technology for regional integration

Objective of the Organization: To narrow the digital divide and build an inclusive, people-centred and development-oriented information society in accordance with internationally agreed development goals and objectives.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Increased implementation of the Regional Plan of Action for Building the Information Society, particularly in relation to the information and communication technology sector	(a) (i) Increased number of member countries implementing policies and plans of action to enhance the information and communication technology sector
	(ii) Increased number of core information and communication technology indicators measured by all member countries
(b) Enhanced capacity of member countries to provide e-services in Arabic targeting socio-economic development	(b) (i) Increased number of information and communication technology applications deployed by member countries to provide e-services with ESCWA assistance
	(ii) Increased number of information and communication technology field projects initiated or promoted by ESCWA that target government services and local community development

Strategy

18.31 The responsibility for implementing this subprogramme lies with the Information and Communication Technology Division. In follow-up to the World Summit on the Information Society Tunis Agenda for the Information Society and the efforts made in implementing the ESCWA Regional Plan of Action for Building the Information Society, the subprogramme will strive to adapt the Tunis Agenda to better serve the region and fine-tune plans of action to build an inclusive, people-centred information society based on productive national information and communication technology sectors.

18.32 Western Asia suffers from a widening digital divide: internally, between Gulf and other member countries, on the one hand, and between cities and rural areas, on the other; and externally, between the region and other regions of the world. Currently, information and communication technology indicators for the region as a whole are lower than world averages. At the same time, the region has development potential that needs to be harnessed in building the information society, particularly in terms of the common language and cultural heritage. Greater efforts need to be deployed in increasing literacy and education levels and tapping human resources and talents, especially among women and the growing youth population.

18.33 The subprogramme will carry out analytical studies, convene meetings and provide advisory services to support this endeavour and act as a catalyst for the member countries to trigger changes in policymaking and continue to develop a comprehensive set of information and communication technology indicators that would help strategic decision-making in identifying priority areas of policy action. It will also assess and revise plans of action, monitor progress, evaluate impacts and benchmark national development with other countries, with a view to improving the productivity and competitiveness of the information and communication technology sector in the region.

18.34 To enhance national capacity and to take advantage of the digital opportunities pertaining to socio-economic development in the region, pilot field projects will be implemented in selected ESCWA member countries. To build a people-centred information society, field projects will incorporate a social dimension through the active involvement of local communities, with a focus on youth employment and empowerment of women.

18.35 The subprogramme will also place special emphasis on harnessing the development of information and communication technology thematic applications, such as e-government and digital Arabic content, with the aim of building on information and communication technology as an agent of change to empower citizens and improve their quality of life.

18.36 Leveraging on previous years' accomplishments for activating partnerships for implementing information and communication technology projects, the subprogramme will enhance regional collaboration and partnerships in activities leading to an inclusive, people-centred information society and contribute to fund-raising efforts aimed at harnessing information and communication technology for socio-economic development. To this end, it will promote the establishment of mechanisms to exchange information and share knowledge among regional players and those outside the region. The subprogramme will also seek close coordination and joint efforts with the other ESCWA subprogrammes and with international regional organizations for more effective results.

Statistics for evidence-based policymaking

Objective of the Organization: To enhance the capacity of member countries to produce and disseminate timely, accurate and comparable socio-economic statistics and indicators to be used by national and international decision makers and civil society for evidence-based policymaking.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Strengthened capacity of member countries to improve the national institutional framework for official statistics	(a) (i) Increased number of member countries taking measures to improve their national institutional framework for official statistics
	(ii) Increased number of member countries committing to implement the United Nations Statistical Commission's Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics
(b) Strengthened capacity of member countries to participate effectively in the 2010 round of population censuses, household surveys and other surveys as a statistical requisite for the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals by 2015	(b) (i) Increased number of member countries taking concrete measures with ESCWA assistance to participate effectively in the 2010 round
	(ii) Increased number of member countries that provide the ESCWA repository of data with at least 60 per cent of the core set of development indicators, including the Millennium Development Goals and gender dimension

Strategy

18.37 The responsibility for implementing a subprogramme lies with the Statistics Division. The subprogramme plays a central role in promoting international statistical standards and providing a regional statistical forum. It aims at strengthening the capacity of the national statistical systems of the region to produce and disseminate, in a timely manner and in keeping with international standards and best practices, the statistical information and development indicators needed to design and monitor evidence-based economic and social policies for national decision makers and civil society.

18.38 The subprogramme will focus on strengthening statistical systems in the member countries in order to harmonize with the United Nations Fundamental Principles of Official Statistics. This will be done by monitoring the implementation and adherence to those principles, promoting and providing support to formulate national statistical development strategies to improve national statistical institutional frameworks and achieve national development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration.

18.39 Recognizing that the period 2008-2009 will be crucial for the member Governments to prepare for the 2010 round of population and housing censuses, the subprogramme will give special focus to the capacity-building of member countries in implementing the recommendations for the 2010 round as well as their capacity in preparing and undertaking household, labour force and other related surveys to collect vital data needed for the policymakers and government officials, and for the private sector and civil society. The subprogramme will also continue to focus due attention on the 1993 System of National Accounts and trade and sectoral statistics, and support the member countries in improving existing gaps in the coverage, transparency and quality of statistics and metadata in compliance with agreed international standards.

18.40 The objective of the subprogramme will be achieved through the organization of meetings and workshops, networking and knowledge-sharing, implementing technical cooperation projects and providing advisory services and expertise to the national statistical offices, in particular where ESCWA has an added value in reflecting the specificity of the region. Greater effort will be made to increase the added-value in its statistical publications by increased use of estimation to fill gaps in statistics and improve their quality.

18.41 The subprogramme will implement its work in partnership with the Statistical Division in the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the United Nations Secretariat and other regional commissions, regional organizations such as LAS and GCC, as well as other statistical departments through joint meetings, publications, data compilation and sharing to ensure coherence and exploit synergy at the regional and national levels.

Advancement of women

Objective of the Organization: To foster greater participation of women in public life for equality between women and men by contributing to reducing gender imbalances and empowering women.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
Strengthened capacity of national mechanisms and civil society institutions for the empowerment and advancement of women to address gender imbalances and mainstream a gender perspective, with special emphasis on the participation of women in legislative and executive authorities	(i) Increased number of member countries applying policy options for the empowerment and advancement of women (ii) Increased number of measures taken by member countries to increase the participation of women in policy and decision-making

Strategy

18.42 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the ESCWA Centre for Women. Taking into account the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, the Beijing Platform for Action and its 10-year review and the Beirut Declaration on Arab Women Ten Years after Beijing: Call for Peace, adopted by the twenty-third session of the Commission, the subprogramme will focus on policy advocacy and capacity-building for increasing the number of women in parliament and at the executive level, as a means for enhancing the ratio of women in decision-making positions. This has proved to be a useful interim measure for addressing gender-related issues more effectively in a number of countries. Greater attention will be focused on promoting partnerships between Governments and grass-roots organizations to increase outreach and to sustain follow-up action, evaluation and promotion of issues relating to the empowerment of women, women's rights and gender mainstreaming. This would include harnessing various media tools to raise awareness of the rights of women in the region and to rectify the flawed perception that distorts their image.

18.43 The subprogramme will synergize its work on the regional components of the programme of work, such as building consensus, promoting common regional positions vis-à-vis international agendas and undertaking joint activities with relevant regional organizations, chiefly LAS and its subsidiary bodies, namely the Arab Women Organization, which works under its auspices, and the Center for Arab Women Training and Research, and with United Nations organizations, especially the Division for the Advancement of Women in the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the United Nations Secretariat, other regional commissions and the United Nations Development Fund for Women.

18.44 Based on the new mandates addressing the issue of women in conflict areas and their role in building peace and making peace, and building on previous successful, though limited, endeavours to support women in war-stricken and conflict areas, the subprogramme will focus due attention on identifying the needs of these women and building their capacity. This issue commands special attention in the ESCWA region, which is characterized by instability.

18.45 The subprogramme will achieve its expected accomplishments through its normative and analytical work, the holding of meetings, networking and knowledge-sharing, training workshops and the provision of advisory services on the empowerment of women and gender-related issues. It will also support member countries in bridging the gap between their commitments to international conventions and conferences and the realization thereof, which is often constrained by the absence or inadequacy of existing institutional mechanisms, laws and practices. To this end, the subprogramme will facilitate networking among Governments and among civil society institutions, and between them through the sharing and replication of good practices. It will also provide a forum for the exchange of experiences and the replication of good practices at the regional and international levels.

Conflict mitigation and development

Objective of the Organization: To reduce the impact of conflict and instability on socio-economic and political development in Western Asia.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Increased understanding by member countries of the impact of conflict on socio-economic development in the region	(a) Increased number of public and civic entities that acknowledge benefiting from ESCWA work in identifying the socio-economic and political causes of instability and conflict
(b) Enhanced capacity of member countries to identify, assess, predict and respond to socio-economic and political issues and challenges posed by conflict and instability in the region	(b) (i) Increased number of tools and techniques adopted in assessing the root causes of conflict and instability
	(ii) Increased number of public and civic entities implementing, in partnerships with ESCWA and other entities, projects/programmes that address the socio-economic and political issues and challenges arising from conflict and instability

18.46 The responsibility for implementing the subprogramme lies with the Conflict Mitigation and Development Section. To achieve its objective and expected accomplishments, the subprogramme will focus on the following four areas:

(a) Analyses and policy formulation for conflict mitigation. The subprogramme will monitor and analyse socio-economic and political events with a view to providing mitigation measures and deepening the understanding of the repercussions of crises and the impact of instability on socio-economic growth in the region. It will also formulate mechanisms to assist in reducing instability in Western Asia and disseminate lessons learned;

(b) Capacity-building. A key part of the strategy will be the improvement of good governance practices, such as improving the quality and effectiveness of public administration, human rights, rule of law and economic decision-making. Such policy recommendations will be supported by training and capacity-building for public and civic bodies to induce policy reform in accordance with international standards of excellence;

(c) Mainstreaming conflict prevention. The subprogramme will be a catalyst in incorporating the socio-economic development needs of conflict-stricken countries into the work of substantive divisions to formulate/implement policies and programmes that cater to the needs of these countries and attempt to reduce the destabilizing regional impact of conflicts;

(d) Forging partnerships. The development of partnerships to help member countries achieve national development targets will be another key component of the strategy. Based on past experience, partnerships operate at several levels, bringing together members of civil society, the private sector, government institutions and United Nations and international organizations operating in the region. Through strengthened partnerships, the subprogramme will be able to mobilize resources to support peacebuilding efforts in the region.

18.47 The subprogramme will work closely with the newly established Human Rights Council, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Assistance Mission for Iraq, the Office of the United Nations Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process and the Peacebuilding Support Office.

Programme 19

Human Rights

Overall orientation

19.1 The overarching purpose of the United Nations human rights programme is to promote and protect the effective enjoyment by all of all human rights. The 2005 World Summit acknowledged peace and security, development and human rights as interlinked and mutually reinforcing pillars of the United Nations system, providing foundations for collective security and well-being. The United Nations human rights programme has a role in making development equitable, sustainable and responsive to the needs of people and in relation to conflict prevention and resolution. In order to promote and encourage respect for human rights, the programme undertakes to give practical effect to the will and resolve of the world community, as expressed through the United Nations, and it shall continue to be guided by the principles of universality, objectivity, impartiality and non-selectivity. Its mandate derives from Articles 1, 13, 55 and 62 of the Charter of the United Nations; the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, including its principles and recommendations, adopted by the World Conference on Human Rights and subsequently endorsed by the General Assembly in its resolution 48/121; Assembly resolution 48/141 establishing the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights; international human rights instruments adopted by the United Nations; the outcomes of relevant United Nations conferences and summits; and the resolutions and decisions of policymaking bodies, including, in particular, Assembly resolutions 55/2 on the United Nations Millennium Declaration, 57/300 on Strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for further change and 60/1 on the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

19.2 The programme falls under the leadership of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, entrusted with the principal responsibility for the human rights activities of the Organization, under the direction and authority of the Secretary-General. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) acts as the central supportive structure for the programme. By 2008, the Office will complete, as appropriate, the first phase of its reform in the follow-up to the 2005 World Summit, which took note of the High Commission's plan of action.

19.3 The programme will work to remove obstacles to the full realization of all human rights and to prevent the continuation of human rights violations, including with relevant parties. Continued engagement of the Office with countries is essential to the realization of the programme in the framework of the enhanced partnerships at the national, regional and international levels. It will draw on the values of the Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome, which call for the promotion of democracy, the strengthening of the rule of law and respect for all internationally recognized human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development. Priority will continue to be given to emphasizing the importance of human rights on international and national agendas, combating poverty and countering discrimination on all internationally recognized grounds, including race, sex, language or religion, advancing the rights of children and women, raising awareness of human rights at all levels of education, responding to the needs of the vulnerable for protection and addressing situations of international concern, particularly gross and systematic violations of human rights, as identified by the Human Rights Council and other relevant United Nations organs.

19.4 Increased support for human rights implementation will be provided to Member States, at their request, through, inter alia, assistance to national systems of human rights protection, national capacity-building, technical cooperation, human rights education and other activities. All human rights activities will be addressed in an integrated, interrelated and interdependent manner. The programme will continue to take gender issues fully into account in the development and application of norms and procedures so that violations against women and girls are clearly identified and addressed. Substantive and organizational support will be provided to the Human Rights Council, its procedures, other relevant United Nations organs and treaty-monitoring bodies. Particular efforts will be made to strengthen, rationalize and streamline the United Nations mechanisms in the field of human rights, as requested by the General Assembly in its resolutions 48/141 and 60/1. The programme will strive to meet the essential challenge of ensuring the enjoyment of human rights worldwide, through the dedicated and coordinated efforts of all relevant partners.

19.5 The programme strategy will be guided by the lessons learned from the 2006-2007 biennium, in particular with regard to measurements of achievement that can be implemented realistically by OHCHR.

Programme 20

International protection, durable solutions and assistance to refugees

Overall orientation

20.1 The overall objective of the programme is to provide international protection to refugees and others of concern to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and to seek permanent solutions to their problems, as well as to ensure the provision of humanitarian assistance to them. Assistance plays a key role in facilitating international protection and the search for and realization of solutions. It is rooted in and grows out of the protective nature of the work of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR). In its operational activities, UNHCR seeks to integrate protection, the search for durable solutions and humanitarian assistance. The pursuit of durable solutions to the problems of refugees is the heart of protection and the principal purpose of the programme. The framework for the provision of international protection was further spelled out in the Agenda for Protection endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Programme of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and welcomed by the General Assembly in 2002.[4]

20.2 The mandate for the programme is contained in General Assembly resolution 319 A (IV), by which the Assembly established UNHCR as from 1 January 1951, and resolution 428 (V), which sets out the statute of the Office. The Assembly has also called upon the High Commissioner to ensure that returnees receive assistance to help in their sustainable reintegration, as well as to monitor their safety and well-being on return (see resolution 40/118). In addition, on the basis of specific requests from the Secretary-General or the competent principal organs of the United Nations, and with the consent of the State concerned, UNHCR provides humanitarian assistance and protection to internally displaced persons (see resolution 48/116), working in cooperation with the United Nations Emergency Relief Coordinator (see resolution 58/153). In its work for internally displaced persons, and as part of the collaborative response of the United Nations system to internal displacement, UNHCR has been given special responsibility for the following three areas: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination. As regards the assistance activities of UNHCR, the basic provisions of the statute were expanded by the Assembly in its resolution 832 (IX). Through the adoption by the Assembly of its resolution 58/153 on implementing actions proposed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to strengthen the capacity of his Office to carry out its mandate, the Office was given a renewed mandate to address the challenge of forced displacement through a mission based on a spirit of solidarity, responsibility and burden-sharing, with an abiding commitment to make the Office a truly multilateral institution. Related to its work for refugees and internally displaced persons, UNHCR has also been mandated to address the situation of stateless persons in accord with the Convention relating to Status of Stateless Persons (1954) and the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness (1961).

20.3 The international legal basis for the protection of refugees finds its principal expression in the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees. In addition, there are a number of other international instruments of relevance, such as the 1989 Convention on the Rights of the Child. At the regional level, there are also important instruments and declarations, such as the Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa of the Organization of African Unity (now the African Union), the Cartagena Declaration on Refugees, adopted by the Colloquium on the International Protection of Refugees in Central America, Mexico and Panama, and the San José Declaration on Refugees and Displaced Persons. Similarly for stateless persons, the international legal basis for addressing their situation is the 1954 and 1961 Conventions.

20.4 UNHCR is responsible for the implementation of the programme. The overall strategy that will be followed consists of a range of activities undertaken in cooperation with States and various organizations and pursued with a continued strong emphasis on improving efficiency, transparency and accountability, especially through the institutionalization of results-based management. Notable among them are the following:

(a) The pursuit of comprehensive strategies, in cooperation with States and organizations, aimed at mitigating and preventing the causes of forced population movements as well as finding solutions to them when they occur;

(b) The ongoing development of a legal regime of international protection, in particular through the promotion of accessions to international and regional instruments relating to the status of refugees or otherwise benefiting refugees, the effective implementation of refugee rights and the promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles;

(c) Ensuring that UNHCR fully participates in and supports the strengthened collaborative response of the United Nations to situations of internal displacement through its leadership and coordination of the areas for which the Office has been given special responsibility: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination;

(d) The further development of contingency planning, emergency preparedness and response capabilities, in coordination with other organizations, so as to respond effectively and efficiently to situations of forced human displacement;

(e) Ensuring that UNHCR and its partners provide protection and humanitarian assistance in a manner that is sensitive to environmental considerations and in such a way that it is supportive of and reinforces development initiatives to the extent possible;

(f) Ensuring that UNHCR and its partners incorporate into all aspects of the delivery of humanitarian assistance the particular needs and capacities, ascertained through participatory assessments, of refugee women and elderly refugees and the special needs of refugee children and adolescents;

(g) The further development, in consultation with concerned parties, of options to ensure the security and the civilian and humanitarian character of refugee camps and settlements as well as security in areas of return and to explore further concrete ways of enhancing the safety and security of UNHCR staff and other humanitarian workers working with refugees and returnees. In this regard, due consideration should be given to the obligation of United Nations officials, in the conduct of their duties, to observe fully both the laws and regulations of Member States and their duties and responsibilities to the Organization;

(h) The systematic follow-up to relevant recommendations in the plans of action emanating from recent international conferences, especially the plan of action related to the Millennium Development Goals;

(i) The involvement, as soon as possible, of other humanitarian and development organizations, both national and international, in providing assistance to refugees, returnees, internally displaced persons and host communities and in the search for durable solutions.

20.5 The programme is under the intergovernmental guidance of the Executive Committee of the Programme of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, in accordance with its terms of reference, as adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 1166 (XII). At its fifty-sixth session, in 2005, the Executive Committee, while considering the report of the United Nations Board of Auditors on the financial statements of the voluntary funds administered by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees for the year ending 31 December 2004, reviewed a recommendation related to the annual programme budget of UNHCR and the corresponding United Nations strategic framework and biennium budget to improve the congruence between the medium-term plan/strategic framework/biennial programme plan and the annual programme budget (A/AC.96/1010, para. 24). In a related decision, the Executive Committee took note of the audit report, the proposed follow-up of UNHCR to the audit recommendations (A/AC.96/1010/Add.1) and the report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/AC.96/1011/Add.1 and Corr.1). Accordingly, it is proposed that the subprogramme structure of the programme for the period 2008-2009 be reorganized and that the two subprogrammes that were approved in the biennial programme plan for the period 2006-2007 be consolidated into a single subprogramme entitled "International protection, durable solutions and assistance to refugees". This would align the subprogramme structure with the structure of the UNHCR operational programme and reflect the fact that in its operational activities, UNHCR is seeking to more fully integrate protection, the search for durable solutions and humanitarian assistance.

Objective of the Organization: To lead and coordinate efforts for the international protection of refugees and other persons of concern to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and to seek permanent solutions to their problems, while at the same time ensuring the provision of humanitarian assistance throughout the refugee cycle from the outset of an emergency until such time as the beneficiaries have been successfully reintegrated into their communities of origin.

Strategy

20.6 Implementation of the programme falls under the overall responsibility of the Division of International Protection Services, the Division of Operational Services and the Regional Bureaux of UNHCR. The overall objective related to protection and durable solutions is multifaceted and will be pursued in a number of ways. Further accessions to the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees as well as to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness will be promoted. The monitoring of the observance by States of internationally accepted standards for the treatment of refugees, especially the fundamental principles of asylum and non-refoulement, will contribute to ensuring the effective implementation of refugee rights by the States concerned. This will involve working especially for the establishment by States of fair and efficient procedures for the determination of refugee status or, as appropriate, other mechanisms to ensure that persons in need of international protection are identified and granted such protection, and to ensure that all persons seeking international protection are granted access to those procedures and mechanisms.

20.7 To ensure a more effective response to the protection needs of refugee women, children and adolescents, a more concerted effort to mainstream the policies and guidelines relating to refugee women, children and adolescents will be continued through the work of specially trained interdisciplinary UNHCR country teams. The promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles, particularly through training, in cooperation with non-governmental organizations, academic institutions and other relevant organizations of governmental and non-governmental officials will be another means of achieving the stated objective. In addition, when, on the basis of a specific request of the Secretary-General or a competent principal organ of the United Nations and with the consent of the State concerned, UNHCR provides protection to internally displaced persons, it will do so on the basis of criteria enumerated in the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and in close collaboration with other concerned entities and agencies. To revitalize old partnerships and build new ones in support of the international refugee protection system, efforts to promote collaboration on refugee protection with a wide range of actors, including the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, will be continued. In order to find permanent solutions to the problems of refugees, especially those in protracted refugee situations, and internally displaced persons, efforts will be made to promote the development of more comprehensive and regional approaches.

20.8 The aspects of the programme dealing with humanitarian assistance, including emergency response, are under the responsibility of the Division of Operational Services and the Regional Bureaux. In order to implement the programme, UNHCR will engage in a number of strategies. In this connection, assistance, whenever possible, will be delivered in such a way that it involves the recipients and taps their potential. This participatory approach will be part of a broader situation analysis, which will also include improved demographic data deriving from the new registration tools (resulting from Project Profile) and the use of the established standards and indicators. This approach should lead to a significant improvement in the quality of the Office's assistance programmes, especially for refugee women, children and the elderly. UNHCR will also focus on the establishment of so-called "4R" programmes for returnees and internally displaced persons of concern to UNHCR to ensure the linkages between repatriation, reintegration, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

Palestine refugees

Overall orientation

21.1 The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) was established as a separate entity within the United Nations system and as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly by resolution 302 (IV) from which UNRWA derives its mandate to provide continued assistance for the relief of Palestine refugees. Since starting its work in 1950, UNRWA has become the largest operational agency in the Middle East and has demonstrated the capacity to adapt and enhance its programmes, as required, to meet the evolving needs of refugees and to cope with developments in the region. It stands ready to continue doing so during the biennium 2008-2009 in accordance with the triennial mandate it receives from the Assembly.

21.2 UNRWA reports directly to the General Assembly. Overall review of UNRWA programmes and activities is undertaken by the 23-member Advisory Commission, which includes representatives of the Agency's major donors and host Governments. In its resolution 3331 B (XXIX), the General Assembly decided that, with effect from 1 January 1975, the expenses relating to the emoluments of international staff in the service of UNRWA, which would otherwise have been charged to voluntary contributions, should be financed by the regular budget of the United Nations for the duration of the Agency's mandate.

21.3 The strategic objectives of UNRWA for the biennium 2008-2009 are to support the educational, social and economic development of the Palestine refugees, to provide targeted relief and social support for the most vulnerable refugees, particularly women, children and the disabled, and to increase the investment of the international community in improving the welfare of Palestine refugees.

21.4 UNRWA aims to achieve its objectives by maintaining and improving the provision of education and health services, relief and social support, and microfinance loans to registered Palestine refugees in Jordan, Lebanon, the Syrian Arab Republic, the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, a population that may reach 4.5 million by 2008.

21.5 Since 2000, the Agency has provided emergency assistance to refugees in acute distress as a result of conflict, military operations, restrictions on the freedom of movement and prolonged economic hardship in the occupied Palestinian territory. This emergency assistance programme reaches over 1.2 million refugees annually. UNRWA will continue such services, as necessary, and will continue to provide, on an exceptional basis, as mandated in General Assembly resolution 2252 (ES-V), services to non-refugees in serious need of immediate assistance.

21.6 Internal strengthening is an organizational priority established during the previous biennium. It includes a dedicated project management function, improved policy development and implementation, and enhanced outreach capacity for the Commissioner-General of the Agency. UNRWA will continue its efforts to mainstream gender, both in programming and human resources management, and to develop further the Agency's protection response in programming, operation and advocacy, thereby bringing UNRWA closer to fulfilling its obligations vis-à-vis the directives of the Secretary-General, international human rights law, and the Beijing Platform of Action.

21.7 The Agency, which is largely dependent on voluntary funding to implement its programmes, has contended not only with chronic funding shortfalls, but also with more sudden, politically induced funding uncertainties. It will continue to maintain cost-conscious management, to carry out programme assessments, as necessary, and to maintain the operational flexibility required to respond to unforeseen disruptions to life and livelihood in Palestine refugee communities. In each subprogramme area, including general education and technical and vocational training, maternal and child health care and disease prevention, poverty eradication and microfinance, the Agency has sought to achieve programme results consistent with the targets and commitments established by the United Nations system, such as the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992. UNRWA will continue, in its five areas of operation, to maintain its efforts to achieve this consistency throughout 2008-2009, including in the areas of educational services, health services, relief and social services and income-generating programmes, and will continue to undertake projects to improve infrastructure and socio-economic conditions.

Humanitarian assistance

Overall orientation

22.1 The overall purpose of the programme is to ensure the timely, coherent and coordinated response of the international community to disasters and emergencies and to facilitate the smooth transition from emergency relief to rehabilitation and development. The legislative authority and mandate for the programme are derived from General Assembly resolution 46/182, in which the Assembly reaffirmed the guiding principles of humanitarian assistance and reinforced earlier decisions and resolutions adopted by it and the Economic and Social Council concerning humanitarian assistance and the leadership role of the Secretary-General in responding to natural disasters and humanitarian emergencies. The Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs is responsible for the implementation of the programme and the achievement of its objectives.

22.2 The strategy for implementing the programme is based on the need for the development and promotion of a common policy on humanitarian issues for the United Nations system and its partners; the mobilization and coordination of assistance in complex emergencies and disasters; the development and mobilization of United Nations capacity to expedite the provision of international humanitarian assistance; the promotion of natural disaster risk reduction; advocacy of humanitarian issues; and the availability of timely information on emergencies and natural disasters to facilitate global humanitarian assistance. Within the United Nations system, the principal responsibility for the coordination and promotion of disaster risk reduction activities resides with the Inter-Agency Secretariat for the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction, while responsibility for the implementation of the Strategy resides with the United Nations system organizations in accordance with their respective mandates.

The Branch will also lead the development of inter-agency policies, guidance and analytical tools. It will develop aides-memoires and diagnostic tools for political actors, such as Member States and peacekeepers, to use during crisis management to help ensure consideration of key humanitarian concerns. In addition, it will contribute to the development of training programmes and standard operating procedures to ensure that staff and other actors in emergencies are aware of key humanitarian policies, methodologies and processes and are able to apply them flexibly and appropriately in varied contexts. The Branch will help identify best practice and innovative concepts that should be disseminated widely to inform and guide policy, operational decisions and crisis management.

22.6 Moreover, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs will support and promote the efforts of Governments of affected countries, upon their request, and those of other agencies, with the approval of the Government concerned, to assist and protect internally displaced persons. Support will be given to the establishment of effective planning capacity for the management of the transition from relief to reconstruction and development. In addition, efforts will be made to ensure that lessons learned from past experience are applied to the strengthening of future humanitarian assistance activities. Strategy

22.11 Substantive responsibility for the subprogramme is vested in the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction and its secretariat, as the focal point for disaster risk reduction within the United Nations system.

22.12 The World Conference on Disaster Reduction adopted the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015: Building the Resilience of Nations and Communities to Disasters (see A/CONF.206/6), setting out strategic goals, priorities of action and implementation and follow-up activities within a strengthened International Strategy for Disaster Reduction system. The focus of the subprogramme has been realigned to meet the expected outcome of the Hyogo Framework for Action, following a two-fold strategy to achieve its objective concurrent with the focus of activities with the two participating organizations, namely, the secretariat of the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction and the UNDP Bureau for Crisis Prevention and Recovery.

22.13 The International Strategy for Disaster Reduction secretariat will continue to act as a facilitating body and "honest broker" in respect of policy coordination, advocacy, information provision, regional outreach and resource mobilization. It will facilitate coherence and team efforts towards the implementation of the Hyogo Framework at all levels, with a special emphasis on the United Nations system. Those efforts will include the servicing of the governance mechanisms of the International Strategy system, namely, the Management Oversight Board, the Global Platform for Disaster Reduction and its Programme Advisory Committee. The secretariat will also continue to raise the visibility and level of commitment to disaster risk reduction and continue to strengthen its regional presence to work closely with regional partners to provide more effective support to Governments. Finally, the secretariat will increase its efforts to promote cooperation among international organizations and networks to develop consistent data collection and forecasting on natural hazards, vulnerabilities and risks, and disaster impacts, including the continued development of a global disaster risk reduction information platform. Through its network of country offices, UNDP will continue to support the development and implementation of disaster risk reduction programmes and projects at the regional and national levels. A major thrust of UNDP/Bureau for Crisis Prevention and Recovery work will be devoted to the production of tools for mainstreaming disaster risk reduction in development and recovery planning in order to empower other partners to reduce disaster risk. These tools are supported by a capacity enhancement effort started in 2006 to put in place national advisers in high-risk countries. Capacity-building support will include risk analysis and monitoring; policy and programme formulation, implementation and evaluation; advocacy and resource mobilization; and training and learning for human resource development. A particularly relevant result sought through the work of the two organizations is increased investment in disaster risk reduction, expressed by an increased number of disaster-reduction and recovery projects funded by donors or other partners.

In addition, support will be provided through the increased involvement of potential recipient and donor countries, using a regional approach, as well as United Nations agencies, in relevant activities, including training and exercise programmes and capacity-building for response preparedness.

22.16 Emphasis will be placed on ensuring the timely dissemination of information on the situation in countries affected by emergencies and disasters, including the identification of resource requirements, to humanitarian and other partners; activating emergency and disaster-response tools to reduce their impact; expanding the United Nations Disaster Assessment and Coordination team in different regions; standardizing operational procedures for international urban search and rescue teams; further developing a comprehensive network of partners, comprising Governments, United Nations agencies, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and corporate actors; and strengthening national and regional civil-military and military-military coordination for more efficient and coherent support to international humanitarian relief operations, inter alia, through the United Nations civil/military coordination training programme. Emphasis will also be placed on increasing the extent to which acute environmental impacts of disasters are identified and addressed during the response phase as well as strengthening coordination in the field of humanitarian logistics through expanded cooperation with relevant partners.

Subprogramme 5

Strategy

22.17 Substantive responsibility for this subprogramme rests with the Advocacy and Information Management Branch.

22.18 Advocacy being a core mandate of the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, the Branch will enhance partnerships with United Nations departments and agencies, non-governmental organizations, Member States, regional organizations and other stakeholders in order to increase the commitment and support to humanitarian action globally. The Branch will further strengthen public information and media relations capacities at Headquarters and in the field in order to raise awareness of the plight and needs of civilians affected by conflicts and natural disasters and promote adherence to international humanitarian law and principles. It will also undertake outreach and targeted campaigns, in concert with its partners, to focus attention on specific humanitarian crises and issues.

22.19 Another vital aspect of the subprogramme is to provide timely and reliable information on unfolding emergencies and natural disasters in order to inform decision-making and support humanitarian action on the ground. The Branch will further strengthen the systems for collection, analysis, dissemination and sharing of humanitarian information through expanded networks, coverage and reach. This includes updating and improving its principal websites, namely OCHA-Online and ReliefWeb, as well as the Integrated Regional Information Networks, its independent field-based humanitarian news service. Partnerships with other members of the humanitarian community for information-sharing, coordination and standardization will be further enhanced.

22.20 The Branch will also provide early warning information with regard to preventive and preparedness measures and will continue to provide secretariat and technical support to the United Nations inter-agency framework for coordination teams.

Overall orientation

23.1 The central purpose of the programme is to help fulfil the substantive aims of the United Nations by strategically communicating the activities and concerns of the Organization in order to achieve the greatest public impact. The responsibility for the programme is vested in the Department of Public Information both at Headquarters in New York and in the worldwide network of United Nations information centres, information components and regional information centres and services, where applicable. The mandate of the Department is contained in General Assembly resolution 13 (I). The Department's work is guided by the priorities laid down by the Assembly and its subsidiary body, the Committee on Information, through resolutions on questions relating to information, the most recent of which are 60/109 A and B. The Department is further guided by Assembly resolution 60/1, entitled "2005 World Summit Outcome".

23.2 The Department seeks to promote global awareness and enhanced understanding of the work and issues of the United Nations. To this end and using the Millennium Declaration as well as resolution 60/1 as its guide, the Department will focus on priority issues for the Organization, including the eradication of poverty, conflict prevention, sustainable development, human rights, dialogue among civilizations, the HIV/AIDS epidemic, combating terrorism in all its forms and manifestations, the needs of the African continent and coverage of United Nations peacekeeping efforts. As the Department responsible for the communication policies of the United Nations, the Department of Public Information works closely with substantive offices of the United Nations system to deliver effective and targeted information programmes on the aforementioned key areas, including global conferences and observances. It aims to reach audiences worldwide through intermediaries such as the media, governmental and non-governmental organizations, educational institutions, business and professional organizations and other segments of civil society.

23.3 To accomplish its mission, the work of the Department is driven by the following core strategies: a new client orientation that emphasizes a closer working relationship with the substantive departments and offices of the Secretariat and the organizations and bodies of the United Nations system in developing communication campaigns that advance the substantive objectives of the Organization; the targeted delivery of its communication products and services to global audiences, particularly influential opinion leaders and youth; the enhanced use of the latest information and communication technologies, in both the traditional and electronic media, to deliver information directly and instantaneously worldwide; the building of an expanded grass-roots support base through partnerships with civil society organizations; and the parity of official United Nations languages in preparing news and communication materials.

23.4 Within this framework, special efforts will be made to ensure that gender mainstreaming is incorporated into the design of public information products and activities, particularly those at the core of the various promotional campaigns for the United Nations system that are spearheaded by the Department.

Overall orientation

24.1 The overall purpose of the programme, the responsibility for which is vested in the Department of Management and the administrative services of the United Nations Office at Geneva, the United Nations Office at Vienna and the United Nations Office at Nairobi, is to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of the Organization in managing its resources in three broad management areas, namely, finance, human resources and support services; to provide support services to the intergovernmental processes of the Organization; to secure financing for the mandated programmes and activities of the Secretariat; and to support the implementation of those programmes and activities.

24.2 The programme derives its mandates from relevant articles of the Charter of the United Nations, specifically Articles 8, 17, 97, 100 and 101, as well as the Financial Regulations and Rules of the United Nations, the Staff Regulations and Rules, the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation, General Assembly resolutions 41/213 and 42/211 and the successive annual resolutions on the review of the efficiency of the administrative and financial functioning of the United Nations, as well as resolutions 52/12 A and B, 57/300, 58/269, 60/1, 60/260 and 60/283, addressing issues of the reform and revitalization of the Organization, and other relevant resolutions.

24.3 The programme is oriented principally towards fully meeting management reform measures, including those approved by the General Assembly, with the support of a communication strategy that ensures that Member States, managers and staff are fully informed of and engaged in the efforts to ensure a more effective and results-oriented Organization.

24.4 The Department of Management will aim to ensure that all new or revised management policies, procedures and internal controls meet or exceed the expectations of Member States as reflected in the resolutions and decisions of the General Assembly, as well as relevant regulations and rules of the United Nations. The capacity of managers to deliver mandated programmes will be strengthened through improved management training, more focused programme planning, more effective use of results-based management and regular and systematic monitoring and evaluation practices. The Department will also closely monitor oversight body recommendations, identify material weaknesses and ensure that remediation plans are developed.

24.5 Human resources management reform will continue to reflect the multicultural environment of the Organization and will be implemented to empower staff, increase their flexibility and mobility in adapting to the priorities of the Organization and enhance their ability to carry out their work more effectively. The Department will continue to support and strengthen the integration of the gender perspective into the work of the Organization, in fulfilment of its leading role in implementing gender-sensitive policies.

24.6 Moreover, the Department will maintain its leadership role within the United Nations common system. By partnering with other organizations of the system, it will strengthen existing common and joint services and expand and develop new common and joint services among United Nations organizations when such services would be more efficient and cost-effective than existing decentralized arrangements.

24.7 Furthermore, the Department will provide substantive and/or technical secretariat support to the Administrative and Budgetary (Fifth) Committee, the Committee for Programme and Coordination, the Committee on Contributions, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions and the Board of Auditors.

C. United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination

Overall orientation

26.6 The United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination (CEB) is responsible for promoting coherence, cooperation and coordination in the policies, programmes and activities of the United Nations system. The Board, which is composed of the Secretary-General and the executive heads of all organizations of the United Nations system, replaced the former Administrative Committee on Coordination (established in 1946 by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 13 (III)). CEB established two high-level committees to assist it: the High-level Committee on Programmes, whose central role is to develop concerted and effective policies, strategies and guidance for the United Nations system to meet emerging challenges and issues relating to international cooperation and development; and the High-level Committee on Management, which elaborates policy and provides guidance to the organizations of the system on administrative and management questions with system-wide relevance, promotes inter-agency cooperation and coordination on such issues and helps with the management of the common system of pay and benefits.

26.7 In the biennium 2008-2009, CEB will focus its work on accelerating progress in the implementation of internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and international agreements since 1992. To this end, CEB will ensure greater coherence among the organizations of the system. Its efforts system-wide will be concentrated on: deepening understanding of global issues and improving knowledge; achieving an inclusive, purposeful mobilization of all resources and capacities; and helping to increase transparency and accountability. CEB will continue to devote its energy and efforts to strengthen the support of the system for the sustainable development of Africa within the overall framework of the New Partnership for Africa's Development and will actively support the mainstreaming of a gender perspective in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the policies and programmes of the system. CEB will continue to enhance and monitor the effective coordination of system-wide efforts against hunger and poverty. CEB will also continue its efforts to ensure the security and safety of United Nations system personnel, including by enhancing system-wide support for an effective and unitary security management system. It will work on furthering cooperation in advancing accountability and transparency in the work of the organizations of the United Nations system; in improving human resource management; in supporting efforts to reform the common system; in utilizing information and communication technology for better management and better programme delivery; and in promoting best practices and lessons learned in the area of management and in policy development and programme delivery through, inter alia, improved platforms for knowledge-sharing. CEB will focus all its efforts on ensuring the common goals of a timely and results-based response to the policy directions and mandates of Member States.

Objective of the Organization: To leverage the full capacity of the organizations of the system to deliver better results in response to intergovernmental mandates and emerging challenges.

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced horizontal cooperation among member organizations in response to decisions of intergovernmental bodies	(a) (i) Increased number of interventions, on behalf of the United Nations system, with intergovernmental and expert bodies (ii) Number of joint or complementary programmes and projects with strategic impact, task-specific inter-agency networking, time-bound working groups and other facilitating initiatives and activities to strengthen system-wide follow-up to intergovernmental decisions

Strategy

26.8 During the biennium 2008-2009, both High-level Committees, in support of CEB, will continue to actively engage the organizations of the United Nations system within a joint framework to pursue strategic actions pertaining to programme matters and management and administrative issues to enhance the capacity of the organizations to operationalize normative advances by pooling resources, capacities and knowledge. The High-level Committee on Programmes will focus on promoting greater synergy in the policies and programmes of the organizations of the United Nations system at the global, regional and country levels so as to enhance the system's overall impact on helping countries meet the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. As necessary, the Committee will draw on inter-agency networks and task forces to strengthen linkages between the normative and operational work of the system and to ensure that the main horizontal policy themes — sustainable development, human rights and gender — are taken into account in decision-making. The High-level Committee on Management will continue to focus on inter-agency cooperation to reinforce measures for the security and safety of United Nations system personnel, including by strengthening the "security management system"; promote accountability and transparency across the system; and disseminate best practices, modern management approaches and partnerships in all areas of management, including human resources and finance and budget management. In the area of information and communication technologies, the Committee will continue the elaboration and implementation of the United Nations system strategic framework for information and communication technology, focusing on such areas as knowledge-sharing; enterprise resource planning systems and payroll; information and communication technology governance, best practice and business case development; service sourcing; inter-agency connectivity; common application solutions and information and communication technology training for senior officials; strengthening inter-agency cooperation in this area and supporting the work in the programme, management and administrative areas through new technological tools.
